TRIAL OF CAPT. WIRZ.

TESTIMONY OF A REBEL SURGEON.

Report of a Rebel Commission to Gen. Winder on the Condition of the Prison.

Sanitary Measures Recommended by Them.

Their Suggestions Not Carried Into Effect.

Hospital Funds Embezzled by One of the Surgeons.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Sept. 22.

In the Wirz trial to-day, Dr. Hopkins testified that on the 22d of July, 1864, he was assigned to duty in the hospital at Andersonville; he, together with Surgeon White, were ordered to make a thorough inspection of the prison and hospital, with a view to their improvement.

The witness here read the following letter as the report which he had made:

ANDERSONVILLE, Ga., Aug. 1, 1864.

Brig.-Gen. John A. Winder:

GENERAL: In obedience to your order of the 26th of July, requesting us to make examination of the Federal Prison and Hospital at this place, and to ascertain and report to you the cause of disease and mortality among the prisoners, and the measures necessary to prevent the same, has been complied with, and we respectfully submit the following causes of disease and mortality:

First—The large number of prisoners crowded together.

Second—The entire absence of all vegetables as diet, so necessary as a preventive of scurvy.

Third—The want of barracks to shelter the prisoners from sun and rain.

Fourth—The inadequate supply of wood and good water.

Fifth—Badly cooked food.

Sixth—The filthy condition of the prisoners.

Seventh—The morbid emanations from the branch or ravine passing through the prison, the condition of which cannot be better explained than by naming it a morass of human excrement and mud.

PREVENTIVE MEASURES.

First—The removal immediately from the prison of not less than fifteen thousand prisoners.

Second—Detail or parole a sufficient number of prisoners to cultivate the necessary supply of vegetables. Until this can be carried into practical operation the appointment of agents along the different lines of railroad to purchase and forward a supply.

Third—The immediate erection of barracks to shelter the prisoners.

Fourth—To furnish the necessary quantity of wood, and have wells dug to supply the deficiency.

Fifth—Divide the prisoners into squads, place each squad under the charge of a sergeant, furnish the necessary quantity of soap, and hold the sergeants responsible for the personal cleanliness of his squad. Furnish the prisoners with clothing at the expense of the Confederate Government, and if that government be unable to do so, candidly admit our inability, and call upon the Federal Government to furnish them.

Sixth—By a daily inspection of bake-house and cookery.

Seventh—Cover over with sand the entire morass, not less than six inches deep. Board the stream or water-course, and confine the men to the use of the sinks, and make the penalty for disobedience of such orders severe.

For the hospitals we recommend that:

First—The tents to be floored with plank; if plank cannot be had, with puncheons; and if this be impossible, then with fine straw, to be frequently changed.

Second—We find an inadequate supply of stool boxes, and recommend that the number be increased, and that the nurses be required to remove them as soon as used, and before returning them, see that they are well washed and limed.

Third—The diet for the sick is not such as they should have, and we recommend that they be supplied with the necessary quantity of beef soup, with vegetables.

Fourth—We also recommend that the surgeons be required to visit the hospital not less than twice a day.

We cannot too strongly recommend the necessity for the appointment of an efficient medical officer to the exclusive duty of inspecting daily the prison hospital and bakery, requiring of him daily reports of their condition to headquarters. We have the honor to remain, General, very respectfully, your obedient servants, F. S. HOPKINS, Acting Ass't Surgeon.

Dr. Hopkins further testified that he submitted it to Dr. White for his signature. The latter said that it contained the truth and that he would sign it and send it to Gen. Winder, but he did not sign it, and the witness did not know that anything had been done to carry out the suggestions.

Judge-Advocate Chipman then submitted a general order of Gen. Winder addressed to Dr. Hopkins to show that the Richmond authorities had knowledge of the condition of the Andersonville prison, and that Gen. Winder had authority to apply a remedy.

Cross-examined by Mr. Schade.—The witness said he did not know who was to blame. Capt. Wirz signed the order as commander of the interior of the prisons. He could see no great difficulty in the way of improvement. It was the implicit confidence which Gen. Winder had in Wirz that caused the state of things to exist, otherwise Gen. Winder would have visited the prison.

H. B. Harrold, who was a shipper of supplies at Americus, testified that he did not think they were ever out of bacon and meal. There was as much there as could be shipped.

Cross-examined—He said the provisions furnished to the prisoners were the same as furnished to the Confederate soldiers.

Dr. G. L. Rice, on duty at Andersonville, testified to the terrible condition of the stockade; men died from starvation, cold and exposure and other causes. Medicines were not furnished in the professional way, but by a formula or number, according to the rules of the prison; for instance, instead of mentioning the medicine, the prescription would be for number one or two or any other number, a specific for any disease being designated by a number. There was no other way in which medicines could be obtained. Dr. Stevenson, who had been in charge of the hospital, was tried and found guilty of embezzling the hospital funds, which amounted from $100,000 to $150,000.

Capt. Wilson French, of the Seventeenth Connecticut, testified that he with 85 other officers, were confined in a room sixty feet long and twenty-five feet wide; they were there five weeks; if they had not had the privilege of buying provisions, they would have starved to death from indifferent rations.

J. B. Griffin, Sergeant J. E. Alden, Robert Tate and others, testified relative to affairs at Andersonville and the conduct of Capt. Wirz.

The commission then adjourned.

Duncan in Duress—Circumstances Attending his Arrest.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Sept. 22.

JAMES W. DUNCAN, who had ill-treated some of the prisoners at Andersonville, causing the death of one of them, and who was arrested in the court-room yesterday, has been committed to the Old Capitol Prison. This man was summoned hither as a witness for Capt. Wirz.

At the close of the proceedings of the Wirz trial to-day, a remarkable scene took place. The witness on the stand, an Indiana cavalryman named GEORGE W. GRAY, had been testifying to some outrages on the part of Wirz that had not been put in evidence before. He stated that the party of prisoners in whose company he arrived at Andersonville were ordered to place their blankets, haversacks and knapsacks, &c., in one place, when an officer mounted on a gray horse rode up, and told the Confederate soldiers to help themselves, and let the prisoners have the remainder. The Confederates helped themselves, and there was nothing left. He was not certain whether the mounted officer was Capt. Wirz or not. In June or July, 1864, the witness and a young fellow named UNDERWOOD, of the Seventeenth Indiana Cavalry, (his own regiment,) went to the sutler's tent; Wirz was there. UNDERWOOD asked for something to rub his wound with. The sutler said he would give it, when Wirz said "no, he cannot have it unless he pays me a dollar." UNDERWOOD gave Wirz his only money, which was a $10 bill; and when he asked for the change Wirz kicked him out of the door. The witness was put in the stocks four days for attempting to escape. He knew a man to die in the stocks in August or September, 1864; the negroes took him out of the stocks after he was dead, threw his body into a wagon, and hauled it off. He knew Wirz to shoot a young fellow named WILLIAM STEWART, belonging to the Ninth Minnesota Infantry. He and the witness had gone out of the stockade with a dead body which they had begged, when they met Capt. Wirz. He rode up to them after they had left the body in the dead-house, and asked them by what authority they were out there. STEWART replied that they were there by proper authority. Wirz said no more, but drew his revolver and shot him. After he was killed the guards took from his body twenty or thirty dollars. Wirz took the money from the guards and rode off, telling them to carry the witness to prison. It was the witness' determination to escape if he could, and for that reason he had gone out, but he was not attempting to do so at the time. When the prisoners were being removed to the cars for exchange, Wirz gave orders to Lieut. DAVIS to bayonet any man who laid down on the road, and the witness had seen men who were crawling on their hands and knees to the cars, bayoneted by the guards. Witness heard one of the surgeons ask Wirz when he was going to remove the Yankees, and Wirz' reply was, "D—m these Yankees, they will all be dead in a few days." He had seen a prisoner who had been caught by the dogs, with a part of his cheek torn off, and his arms, hands and legs gnawed up, so that he only lived twenty-four hours. The first time he had known Wirz personally was one day that he heard Lieut. DAVIS call his name at the gate.

Judge-Advocate CHIPMAN—Capt. Wirz, will you be good enough to stand up?

The prisoner, who had been lying all day on a lounge, squirmed round, partly raising himself, till his eye lit up with a wild, haggard expression, and yet glaring defiantly, like those of a wild animal brought to bay, met the eyes of the witness.

Col. CHIPMAN, to the witness—Do you recognize that man as the man who shot your comrade?

The witness, (slowly and emphatically)—That is the man.

The prisoner here made an effort to contradict the witness, muttering some incoherent expressions about not having been seen by the witness with Lieut. DAVIS. He was with difficulty restrained and silenced by the officer in charge, Lieut. MURPHY.

The Judge-Advocate, apparently not satisfied with the opportunity which the witness had for identification, asked the prisoner to rise. Gathering up as well as he could his loose ill-jointed frame, which appeared as if it might fall to pieces, the prisoner tottered to his feet, and was supported in that attitude by the officer of the guard. His eyes had a wild expression, and it was hard to repress sympathy with the unfortunate man.

Again the Judge-Advocate repeated his question to the witness. The witness' reply this time was more hesitating, and was, "I think that is the man." Another wild and fruitless attempt at contradiction was made by Wirz, when he was partly drawn and partly sank on the lounge, where, by order of Gen. WALLACE, he was furnished with cold water and fanned by the officer. The court thereupon adjourned, Gen. WALLACE ordering the rooms to be cleared instantly, so that the fainting and apparently dying man might have air. The halls and lobbies were lined with persons waiting to see him as he might be carried past. The prosecution will probably close to-morrow, but it is doubtful whether Wirz will live to see the case closed.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Sept. 22.

THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

The council of the Protestant Episcopal Church of Virginia held their annual conference in Richmond yesterday. There was a large attendance. Right Rev. Bishop JOHNS' charge recommends the reëstablishment of the relations with the church in the North which existed before the rebellion. Further action on this subject was postponed until next week.

INTERNAL REVENUE RECEIPTS.

The Internal Revenue receipts to-day were not so large as usual, amounting only to $1,125,522 96.

THE CASE OF COL. EDWARDS.

There are several errors in the statement of Col. EDWARDS' case in yesterday's TIMES; one of them needs correction. The decision of the court has not been promulgated; the Secretary of War ordered that Col. EDWARDS be dismissed, etc., and the President suspended the execution of the order, and therefore Col. EDWARDS is yet in the service.

RETURNED TO WASHINGTON.

The Postmaster-General and Secretary of the Navy have returned from their trip to the North. The members of the Cabinet, except Mr. STANTON, were present at the Cabinet meeting to-day.

ILLNESS OF MRS. PATTERSON.

Mrs. PATTERSON, daughter of President JOHNSON, has been quite ill, but is improving this evening.

PARDONS GRANTED.

The President to-day granted amnesty pardons to the following-named parties:

Virginia—Alex. Campbell, Jr.; Dr. J. Goodwin, R. B. Moornan, Gray Carroll. North Carolina—John A. Taylor, F. York, J. W. F. Weaver, M. L. Ariston, John G. Williams, John E. Williams, J. E. Williams, Thos. G. Walton, Edward Wood, B. F. Shorn, Levi M. Scott, W. P. Stanback, J. R. Simonton, M. McGhee, Patrick McGowan, James W. Newsum, Addison Maguire, John McDonald, John A. McManus, John Low, N. H. Kayler, David Kincaid, J. B. King, Edmund Jacobs, C. Perkins, John Pool, R. C. Pearson, J. M. Patrick, John Phifer, Kenneth Raynor, Daniel L. Bushell, Dr. J. G. Ramsay, Edward Patrick, A. J. Jenkins, A. J. Hester, J. J. Phaxton, Jerry Tomlin, S. M. Tomlinson, Gabriel M. Lea, Ed. L. Mann, W. C. Mars, J. B. Moxter, Jacob Ludwick, Edward Jones, F. J. Jones, C. C. Jones, B. J. Howse, Logan Harris, John M. L. Harrington, Josiah Cowles, Calvin J. Cowles, James A. Claywell, Rufus W. Daniel, David M. Carter, Alfred Dockery, R. F. Moir, John B. Odone, R. S. Proctor, G. J. R. Pulliam, H. K. Reid, Oliver H. Dockery, W. W. Munday, R. H. Morrison, P. R. McGrady, R. M. Martin, R. V. Michaux, W. C. Erwin, John Everett, D. S. Fereber, Thos. C. Fuller, James E. Gilmer, C. L. Harris, D. W. Bell, E. T. Beasly, R. E. Burch, H. H. Burwell, L. L. Buckhouse, Thomas S. Bell, Samuel Calvert, Thos. W. Currie, Martin Clark, C. M. Clark, Abner Coltram, L. V. Caughell, W. L. Daniel, R. Q. Davidson, J. H. Dallon, Jas. G. Ferguson, D. C. Hounton, W. J. Hill, C. L. Hunter, Mrs. Mary Collins. South Carolina—Samuel J. Townsend, L. D. Mowry, Wm. S. Mowry, John McQueen, Robert C. Emanuel, E. W. Edgerton, Chas. Fouar. Mississippi—J. D. Welborn, Wm. A. Sykes, Elisha Strong, L. B. Sykes, G. A. Sykes, John G. English, James H. Haughton.

INTERNAL REVENUE DECISION.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue received a communication yesterday from Mr. E. J. LOWBER, President of the Distillers' Association of New-York, on the subject of taxation of an article distilled from beer, on which the tax of one dollar per barrel has been paid. It is claimed that this article thus produced is exempt from taxation under the law which provides that alcohol made from materials on which a tax has been paid, shall be exempt from taxation.

The commissioner, in reply to Mr. LOWBER, says:

"The dealers in this article have risk and trouble enough at best, and we must make the most we can of the present law, hoping that the next Congress, profiting by the experience of the past three years, will materially improve it. The Brooklyn case to which you refer was brought before me by Mr. BOWERS, and has been definitely decided. I do not propose to recognize as valid an invention whose only claim to merit is the allegation that it successfully evades the law. My decision is based upon two points: First, that the product of Mr. BOWERS' still is not alcohol, but highwines, and that it can only be converted into alcohol by refining, and that such alcohol so produced is not made from spirits on which the duties have been paid. And, secondly, that the plain intent of the law is to lay a tax of $2 per proof gallon upon all distilled spirits sold, or consumed, or used in the manufacture of any other article; section fifty-five must override the exception in section ninety-six, upon which he relies. To take any other view of the case than this would be, in effect, to nullify the provisions of the law taxing spirits, by inviting the preparation at one place under the name of beer, of what would be in fact simply the material out of which spirits would be made in another."

Dispatches to the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Sept. 22.

PARDONS GRANTED.

The President to-day granted pardons to six Virginians and to ninety-three North Carolinians, including ex-members of Congress KENNETH RAYNER and ALFRED DOCKERY; also to seven South Carolinians, including ex-member of Congress JOHN MCQUEEN; and to the same number of Mississippians.

CHOLERA AT SMYRNA.

The Consul at Smyrna, in a letter to the State Department, dated Aug. 19, says the cholera mortality is steadily on the increase, and its ravages alarming. It is stated in another communication that the cholera has appeared at Majorca, and our Consul says that this scourge is still advancing eastward. There is no doubt but that a number of cases have occurred at Port Mahon. The Consul at Barcelona reports to the Department that from the 24th to the 31st of August, the number of deaths from cholera in that city has averaged about 24 per day. On the 1st of September there were 42 deaths from this disease.

THE $100 COUNTERFEIT.

The Secretary of the Treasury has just issued the following circular:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, Sept. 21, 1865.

The instructions contained in the circular of the department dated Sept. 16, relative to the counterfeit $100 compound interest notes, instructing Assistant Treasurers and designated depositaries not to pay out $100 compound interest notes nor other denominations of compound interest notes bearing date Nov. 15, 1865, or prior to that time, were intended to apply to notes held by such Assistant Treasurers and depositaries as government funds, and were not designed to direct the action of banks or individuals relative to such compound interest notes, held on their own account. The difficulty and expense of at once withdrawing from circulation, or exchanging for other notes, all compound interest notes of the character described now in circulation, make the attempt inadvisable. The department will, however, withdraw from circulation the $100 compound interest notes as fast as they may be received in the ordinary course of business, and reissue more of the same impression; and it is hoped that, by due care and caution, after the immediate exposure of the dangerous character of the counterfeits, any considerable circulation of them may be prevented. Assistant Treasurers and designated depositaries will, therefore, forward to the Treasurer of the United States such compound interest notes as are of the denomination of $100, and all compound interest notes which are dated May 15, 1865, or prior thereto, the same being held as funds of the government, and not otherwise. (Signed,)

H. McCULLOCH, Secretary of the Treasury.

CLAIMS AGAINST FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS.

Citizens of the United States having claims against foreign governments, not founded on contracts which may have originated since the 8th of February, 1853, will, without any delay which can be avoided, forward to the State Department statements of the same under oath, accompanied by the proper proof.

SECRETARY STANTON.

His Movements in the City—His Whereabouts and Whatabouts—Receptions of the Clergy and Others on Thursday Night, and of Army Officers, and Other Friends on Friday—He Dined with Senator Morgan on Thursday, with Judge Pierrepont on Friday, and Returned to Washington To-day.

EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War, has been the guest of Senator MORGAN, at his residence, corner of Fifth-avenue and Thirty-seventh-street since Wednesday evening last, and this morning by special conveyance has returned to Washington, when he will resume the duties from which he has been absent exactly a month—the first known absence since his assumption of the office.

While the public curiosity has been great; while many, indeed, the majority of our readers would have been glad to know the whereabouts and whatabouts of our distinguished guest, we have not deemed it proper in any way to allude to his presence or his occupation, lest it should entail upon him an amount of boredom, which even his immense physique would fail to sustain. Now that he has gone, it is eminently proper that a brief record of his more public doings should be made.

On Thursday morning Senator MORGAN issued cards of invitation to many of our most distinguished men of letters and to eminent clergymen, lawyers, merchants and politicians, inviting them to his house on that evening for the purpose of meeting the Secretary of War. Eight o'clock was the hour named, at which time, and for hours thereafter, crowds of carriages, and not a few omnibusses, stopped before the Senator's doorway. The house, eligibly situated, was brilliantly illuminated, and attracted quite naturally a large crowd of oi polloi in front and at the sides who knew nothing of what was transpiring within, but nevertheless enjoyed the blaze and blare, the music and general atmospheric excitement hugely.

At the inner door the Senator waited the arrival of his friends, whose expectant faces he greeted with the precise formality which for years has made him a man of mark in the "profession to which he belongs." Taking each one with utmost hospitality and great empressement by the arm, he presented them in turn to the Honorable Secretary, saying, "Mr. Secretary, this is my friend Judge PIERREPONT," or "this is my friend HENRY WARD BEECHER," as the case might be. Of course, the major part of those who availed themselves of the Senator's invitation had met Mr. STANTON at Washington, but form and ceremony being necessary, Mr. MORGAN evinced his entire mastery of the situation.

In the extension room at the rear of the parlor was stationed a large and harmonious band of musicians, who played many and patriotic airs, greatly to the delight of the outsiders, and somewhat to the embarrassment of a few prominent merchants who proposed to get off little bunkum speeches on the occasion, but who being somewhat unused to public speaking became confused by the inharmonious commingling of the tunes and their own ideas, and were compelled to give it up for a more convenient and less musical season. Senator MORGAN'S waggery is proverbial, but he has never yet done so waggish, so entirely humorous and Mephistophelien a thing as the engagement of that brass band, which with a motion of his finger he could silence the most persistent member of the Chamber of Commerce, and so confuse the sons of Gab as to insure his Secretarial guest peace and comfort continually. Among the very many were noticed Major-Gen. Joseph Hooker, U. S. A.; Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, Judge Edward S. Pierrepont, Judge Hilton, Judge Nelson, Judge Shipman, Major-Gen. John A. Dix, Prof. Lieber, Rev. Dr. Adams, Rev. Dr. Spring, Rev. Dr. Tyng, Rev. Dr. Cheever, Rev. Dr. Storrs, Rev. Dr. Canfield, Rev. Dr. Dix, Mr. Abiel Low, Mr. White, Mr. Prosper M. Wetmore, (facetious as usual,) Mr. Charles Gould, Mr. Wm. E. Dodge, Mr. A. T. Stewart, Mr. R. L. Stuart, John Jay, Col. Black, Senator Laimbeer, Gen. Cullum, Gen. Barnard, Gen. Parke, Gen. Sickles, Gen. Graham, Gen. Dodge, Judge Busteed, James T. Brady, Judge Daly, George Opdyke, Moses F. Odell, John J. Phelps, Samuel P. Ruggles, Gen. De Trobriand, Jonathan Sturgis, J. S. T. Stranahan, H. H. Van Dyck, Abraham Wakeman, W. B. Astor, Thomas C. Acton, Gen. C. A. Arthur, Major-Gen. Anderson, Mr. Archibald, British Consul; Col. Jarvis, British Army, who made report on Canadian Defences; James Brown, John C. Green, Henry A. Hurlburt, Wm. V. Brady, Isaac A. Bailey, Judge Benedict, Judge Russell, Judge Hoffman, Judge Roosevelt, Judge Bonney, Police Commissioner Bergen, Gen. A. W. Harvey, Col. Colyer, E. C. Cowdin, Admiral Farragut, Major-Gen. Barlow, Republican candidate for Secretary of State; Parke Godwin, Col. Howland, Republican candidate for State Treasurer; Hon. Preston King, and others too numerous (and of no particular consequence) to mention. The evening was passed in pleasant converse; sweetest music enlivened the scene, gayest toilets adorned the occasion, and from the earliest hour of admission until the last bottle popped its excited cork, all went pleasantly and uninterruptedly toward the completion of the night's success.

Yesterday morning, at 11 o'clock, Major-Gen. HOOKER and on duty at this post met at the Fifth-avenue Hotel, where it was announced that Mr. STANTON would be pleased to see them at the house of his host. A more brilliant cortége has rarely, if ever, passed up the avenue than that which shortly after high noon stopped in front of Senator MORGAN'S door. Gen. HOOKER introduced his staff and other officers to Senator MORGAN, who in turn presented them to Mr. STANTON. The visit was brief, and necessarily quite formal, and after the merest ceremony the majority of the officers retired.

After the official reception was ended, Mr. STANTON sat with Mr. BEECHER about an hour, after which Senator LOWE and others called upon him, and Judge EDWARDS PIERREPONT requested the pleasure of his company at dinner.

In the afternoon, Mr. STANTON, with a few friends, drove to the Central Park, after which they were entertained at the house of Judge PIERREPONT, where the more prominent members of the bar assembled to do honor to a distinguished brother.

At an early hour, Mr. STANTON returned to Washington. During his absence from the capital he has visited Boston and its fortifications, and when here, accompanied by but a very few, he made a tour of the harbor. He called at Fort Lafayette, and was received with all ceremony by Gen. MARTIN BURKE, U. S. A., who for the nonce dropped his Josephian dressing-gown, and, it is reported, put on boots. Ex-Senator ex-rebel MALLORY, who regales himself on kitchen rations in casemate No. 2 at the fort, in company with Senator HILL, desired to see the Secretary, but Mr. STANTON declined an interview. After his departure, however, Mr. MALLORY wrote a note to him, which was of such a nature that Gen. BURKE sent it immediately over to Fort Hamilton, where Mr. STANTON had gone. Whatever it was, it produced the wished-for effect, for Mr. STANTON returned to Fort Lafayette, and granted Mr. MALLORY a protracted audience.

The entire absence of political dodgery and popular fishing noticeable about this visit of Mr. STANTON is characteristic of the man, and is in marked contrast with the patent straining after notoriety and ovationary tribute of many of our best known public characters. He came quietly, had a good time socially, and has gone about his business.

ALABAMA.

Legislation During the War Ratified—The Present Constitution to be Retained.

MONTGOMERY, Friday, Sept. 21.

The convention, to-day, passed an ordinance ratifying all laws passed by the Legislature during the war, not inconsistent with the Constitution of the United States; and, also an ordinance ratifying the present constitution, except as regards the insurance of Treasury notes and State bonds.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE STATE CONVENTION.

First Day.

From Our Own Correspondent.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Tuesday, Sept. 12.

The convention called by Gov. PARSONS, met this 12 o'clock M., and is a strong, respectable body. Owing to the excessive lack of time the vote was comparatively small outside of the central counties. The convention is entitled to 183 delegates.

A large number of the most distinguished gentlemen from Alabama were present as delegates, and the utmost cordiality was manifested.

Among those specially distinguished were Ex-Governor and Ex-Senator Fitzpatrick, Ex-Governor Winston, Col. John A. Elmore, Ex-Speaker Crawford, Judge Mudd, Maj. Wm. P. Webb, Gen. Fair, Ex-Minister to Belgium, Col. Cooper, of Cherokee, and others well known to the State. Among those representing the young blood of the State were Capt. Jas. Taylor Jones, of Marengo, Col. Locke, of Pike, Thos. W. Coleman, of Choctaw, and Capt. Clarke, of Lawrence. The members seemed to be actuated by a spirit of harmony and conciliation, and expressed a desire to bring the business of the convention to a speedy conclusion, at the same time giving the important questions before it a prudent consideration. Upon the matters which should come legitimately before the body, the members seem to have already formed decided opinions. Those opinions accept the situation and indorse the provisoes laid down by President JOHNSON as preliminary to restoration.

At noon precisely, Mr. Ex-Speaker CRENSHAW moved that Mr. PATTON, of Lauderdale, take the chair. The motion being carried, the chairman took his seat and put a motion that A. B. CLITHERALL be appointed temporary Secretary. This motion having been carried, a brief debate sprung up as to the next step to be pursued, in which Messrs. COOPER, WINSTON, LEA and HUNTER, of Dallas, participated. It was finally determined that the roll of counties should be called and members sign their names; upon the conclusion of which Mr. CRENSHAW moved that a committee of three be appointed to wait upon the Governor and inform him that the convention was ready to organize. Messrs. WEBB, CRENSHAW and WINSTON were appointed upon this committee. The committee retired, and soon returned escorting Gov. PARSONS and ALBERT ELMORE, Secretary of State. The Governor, upon taking his seat on the left of the chairman, ordered the Secretary of State to call the roll, and then administered to all of the members the oath of amnesty, to support the constitution of the United States and the Union thereunder, and to support all proclamations relative to the emancipation of slaves. He then declared the convention authorized to make a permanent organization.

The election of President being in order, Mr. COOPER, of Cherokee, nominated Ex-Governor FITZPATRICK, of Autauga. There being no other nominee, Hon. BENJAMIN FITZPATRICK was declared President by acclamation.

The President, upon being escorted to the chair by Messrs. COOPER, FAIR and LEA, acknowledged his thanks to the members of the convention. He said that he would have shunned the honor had he been left to choose in the matter. The convention had come to remodel the constitution of the State. Questions of the deepest interest were involved. The clash of arms had just died away, and they had come together for peace, to reconcile and restore.

No particular business transpired, with the exception, maybe, of the following resolution of Mr. MUDD: That a committee, comprising one member from each judicial district, be appointed by the President to report such amendments to the constitution as may restore the State to her proper relations with the Federal Government; and a similar committee to report relative to the act of secession, and in what manner certain acts which have been passed during the war may be ratified without infringing upon the Constitution of the United States. Carried.

At a little past 3 P. M. the convention adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow.

Second Day.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Wednesday, Sept. 13, 1865.

The convention came to order at 10 o'clock A. M., and the Secretary read the minutes of the day before.

After the reading of the minutes, five more delegates were qualified to hold seats, swelling the list to 97.

A running debate about who should and who should not open the session with prayer, occupied the convention about half an hour, when it was resolved that the President should appoint a committee of two to invite ministers of the gospel in this city to open the sessions with prayer.

Mr. MARCLIS, of Shelby, submitted a long-winded, ungrammatical lot of balderdash, which, after being deciphered, was refused.

Mr. WHITE, of Talladega, vehemently opposed the resolution offered by Mr. MUDD last evening: "That a committee, comprising one member of each judicial district, be appointed by the President to report such amendments to the constitution as may restore the State to her proper relations with the Federal Government, and a similar committee to report relative to the act of secession, and in what manner certain acts which have been passed during the war may be ratified without infringing upon the Constitution of the United States." The tenor of his remarks showed conclusively that he was in favor of embarrassing the convention. He became quite verbose over State pride, &c., but failed to elicit that attention he had desired. He also objected to it on account of its similarity to a resolution of the Mississippi convention—he objected to it on account of State pride.

Mr. MUDD, the author of the resolution, made a strong reply, as did also Mr. LEE, of Perry County, and the following resolutions, as substitutes to the resolution of Mr. MUDD, were voted down by a large majority. The following are the resolutions:

Resolved, That a committee, to consist of two from each judicial district in the State, be appointed by the President to consider and report to this convention what alterations and amendments (if any) in the constitution are necessary and proper to restore the State of Alabama to her just and legitimate relations with the General Government, and such other alterations and amendments to the constitution, consistent therewith, as may consist with the present condition of things and conduce to the future welfare of the people of the State of Alabama.

Resolved, That a committee of one from each judicial district in the State be appointed by the President to consider and report to this convention what action (if any) shall be taken in reference to an ordinance, commonly known as the ordinance of secession, passed in convention of the people of Alabama, on the 11th of January, 1861, and to inquire into and report what action shall be taken by this convention in reference to executive, judicial and legislative proceedings had and done in the State of Alabama since the 11th of January, 1861.

A resolution declaring the ordinance of secession null and void was referred to the Committee on Ordinance of Secession.

The following were referred to the proper committee:

Be it Ordained by the People of Alabama in Convention Assembled, That an ordinance adopted by a former convention of the State of Alabama, entitled "An ordinance to dissolve the Union between the State of Alabama and the other States united under the compact styled the Constitution of the United States of America," be and the same is hereby abrogated and declared to be null and void.

Be it further ordained, That all other ordinances, resolutions and proceedings of a former convention of this State, begun and held on Jan. 7, 1861, and on March 4, of the same year, be and the same are hereby authorized and declared to be null and void.

The following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That the President of the Convention appoint the following Standing Committees:

1. A committee of one member from each judicial district on amendment to the Constitution of the State.
2. A committee of nine on Federal Relations.
3. A committee of five on Enrolled Ordinances and Constitutional Amendment.
4. A committee of five on Printing.
5. A committee of nine on Mileage and Pay of Members and Officers.
6. A committee of nine on Elections.
7. A committee of nine on Congressional Districts and Representation.
8. A committee of nine on War Debt.
9. A committee of nine on Accounts.
10. A committee of five on Propositions and Grievances.
11. A committee of five on Ways and Means, and on the Expenses of the Convention and the Expenses of Administering the Amnesty and Registration Oath.

No other business came before the convention, and it adjourned until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. I will add here that the convention has not been very strict to-day on parliamentary rules.

BENJAMIN C. TRUMAN.

VIRGINIA.

Bishop Meade's Address to the Episcopal Convention—He Urges Reunion with the Northern Churches.

BALTIMORE, Friday, Sept. 22.

Richmond papers of to-day contain Bishop MEADE's address to the Episcopal Convention of Virginia, strongly urging a reunion with the northern wing of the church. Rev. Dr. ANDREWS, Chairman of the Special Committee appointed to consider so much of the Bishop's interesting and impressive address as refers to the future relations of the diocese with the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States, respectfully report that, having had the documents referred to therein under their most deliberate and prayerful consideration, they recommend the adoption of the following resolutions,

That the Christian and conciliatory course of our respected diocesan in his correspondence with the presiding bishops and other members of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States, touching a reunion with the General Convention of said Church, meets our cordial approbation; that this council appreciates and affectionately responds to every sentiment of fraternal regard which has been manifested in the correspondence referred to; that this council is of opinion that its objects, which all the parties interested may be presumed most to desire, will be best accomplished by referring the subject to the next general council.

The report was adopted almost unanimously. The council then proceeded to elect clerical and lay delegates to the grand council, which meets in Mobile, Ala., about the 1st of November.

FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

The State Agricultural Fair—Sporting Intelligence.

SAN FRANCISCO, Monday, Sept. 18.

The steamship Colorado sailed to-day for Panama with $1,350,000 in gold for New-York and $670,000 for England, and 950 passengers, among them Judge FIELD and Prof. JACKSON.

The steamer Moses Taylor has arrived from San Juan with passengers who left New-York on the 20th ult.

The State Agricultural Fair opens at Sacramento to-day, under favorable auspices. The feature to-day is a race between the horses Norfolk and Lodi.

SAN FRANCISCO, Tuesday, Sept. 19.

The great race at the State Fair, between Norfolk and Lodi, yesterday, was won by the former. Norfolk run the first mile of the first two-mile heat in 1:45, and completed the two miles in 3:30. In the second heat Norfolk made the first mile in 1:46, and the entire heat in 3:38. Six thousand people witnessed the race.

SAN FRANCISCO, Wednesday, Sept. 20.

The steamer Sonora arrived last night from Panama with the Second United States Artillery Regiment, Regulars, Brevet Brig.-Gen. FRENCH, commanding.

Sailed to-day, ship Hase, for New-York.

FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

Arrest of a Thieving Servant—A Present to Jeff. Davis.

FORTRESS MONROE, Thursday, Sept. 21.

MATILDA BURNETT, colored servant of Dr. CHEEVER, chaplain of Fortress Monroe, has been arrested for robbing the house of $125 in money and other articles. The property has been recovered.

JEFFERSON DAVIS received an invoice of liquors from Richmond to-day, and appreciates it very highly.

Horse Fair at Riverside Park—The Racing.

BOSTON, Friday, Sept. 22.

The fourth day of the National Horse Fair at Riverside Park passed off in the most satisfactory manner. A large crowd of spectators were present.

The first race was for horses that had never trotted for money, and was won by Lady Bliss, in three strait heats; time, 2:45, 2:49¼, 2:47¼.

In the race for Class No. 9, horses that never trotted faster than three minutes, there were three entries. George M. Patchen, Jr., won the first heat in 2:41, and Jesse Wales the next three heats in 2:36¼, 2:39¼, and 2:38¼.

In the great race, open to all horses, first premium $750, second premium $250, there were three entries, Frank Vernon, Gen. McClellan and Sorrel Dan. The former won the race in three heats; time—2:34¼, 2:35, 2:36¼. Sorrel Dan was second.

The fair closes to-morrow.

The Lake Superior and Puget Sound Railroad.

MONTREAL, Friday, Sept. 22.

Col. ROWLAND, as Commissioner of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, is here conferring with the Canadian Government and others relative to uniting British capital with the grants of the United States in the construction of the Lake Superior and Puget Sound Railroad. Col. ROWLAND is confident the commercial influence of Canada will be most fully accorded to this project, as one of great international importance to the people of both countries; and he has no doubt that his mission will be crowned with success.

Fatal Steam Explosion.

PITTSBURGH, Friday, Sept. 22.

A terrible accident occurred this morning caused by the blowing up of the towboat Nimrod. Capt. McCORMICK was instantly killed. The fireman was blown ashore, receiving fatal injuries. The engineer, his wife and boy are missing, and are supposed to be lost. Several others were seriously injured. Part of the boiler was blown a distance of one hundred yards. The Nimrod was owned by a New-York Oil Company, and is a total loss. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

Death of Two Missionaries.

BOSTON, Friday, Sept. 22.

Information has been received of the death of two missionaries in Turkey, Rev. EDWARD DODD and Rev. HOMER BARTLETT MORGAN. The former died of cholera and the latter of typhus fever.

Odd Fellows—Grand Banquet.

BALTIMORE, Wednesday, Sept. 22.

A grand banquet was given by the merchants to the Grand Lodge of the United States. Gen. HANCOCK made the address of welcome.

Burglary.

DETROIT, Friday, Sept. 22.

The store of CHARLES DAWSON at Pontiac was entered by burglars last night, and the safe was blown open and robbed of over $30,000 in government bonds.

OUR VISITORS.

The English Excursionists.

DETROIT, Mich., Wednesday, Sept. 20.

By special train the party of English excursionists have just arrived in this city from Toledo, Ohio, making the trip in less than three hours.

The good feeling which has been manifested everywhere toward the party in the West was emphatically expressed at Toledo by an excursion, a ball and a public reception. Toledo is, comparatively, a small place, but the people have large hearts, and their cordial hospitality has made a deep impression upon the strangers.

From Toledo, yesterday afternoon, the party made an excursion up the Maumee River, to Lake Erie, in the steamer George W. Reynolds. A collation was served, and the occasion was seized for the presentation of a welcoming address to Sir MORTON PETO, Mr. McHENRY, and their associates in the Atlantic and Great Western Railroad enterprise. Mr. WAITE, of the Reception Committee, who delivered the address, alluded gracefully to the friendly course which the distinguished guests had adopted in relation to our late war, and to their faith in the justice of our cause, as exhibited by the investment of fifty millions of dollars in a railroad enterprise which was so beneficial to the West during the four years of national distress.

In reply, Sir MORTON PETO, after thanking the people of Toledo for their kindness, said:

You have referred sir, to the object of our visit. I know enough of you and your people to know that you like plain speaking, and I tell you frankly and freely what that object really is. We have had the honor and the happiness to be associated with Mr. McHENRY in the great project to which you have so eloquently referred—that of the construction of the Atlantic and Great Western Railway—and it was at the suggestion of Mr. McHENRY that we undertook this long journey, in order that he might show us where our capital was spent—how applied—what were our prospects and how we might judiciously and safely invest more in prosecution of our enterprise. When we accepted the invitation of our friend, we did so in good faith on his representations; but I say to you that, much as we had heard of the resources of America, and great as were our anticipations from Mr. McHENRY's statements, the facts are, that the realization exceeds the opinion—that our friend did not tell us half the truth, either in regard of the resources of your country or the profits to be obtained from a judicious investment of capital. [Loud Cheers.] What have we found? In the first place our railway has been built, Sir, as you have said, during the four years of your terrible struggle in this land, and the receipts of the line per mile at present are equal to the receipts of the London and North Western Railway of England, although the through traffic on our line has been in operation only since last May. [Cheers.] And then there is the additional fact that our railway has not cost half what the London and North Western has cost per mile. So far we are content. Mr. McHENRY has taken us to Meadville, to Cincinnati, to St. Louis, to Chicago, and to this point, where we have the pleasure and happiness of meeting you to-day. What do we find at each of these places? That the traffic of the country at each of these places is literally starving. I mean that railways at present do not accomplish the end intended, or realize the amount of good that should result from them. I maintain that when railways are completed, the most injudicious thing in the world is to starve them for the accommodation of sidings or rolling stock. All of you will understand me. You know that the first cost of the line itself is the main expenditure, and that all improvement made afterward tends largely to profit if judiciously applied. [Cheers.] Until you have accomplished the full intention and object of railways—namely, by carrying all you can upon them—everything you need in the shape of rolling stock is a subtraction from the profits of the road. [Hear, hear.] We are prepared to recommend, on our return to England, such an expenditure of capital as will lead to a full and fair and free development of your commerce. [Cheers.] That will be our interest. We claim nothing in the way of thanks for that—because it will be our duty, as representing a large amount of capital, to see how that capital can be more largely increased, and new facilities given for its employment. [Cheers.] I do not hesitate to say that the Atlantic and Great Western Railway ought to have a double track throughout; but it is useless to do this unless the outlet to New-York be doubled also. And now, having said these two or three plain words on matters of business—we are not here to discuss political questions—but you, sir, having touched on politics and referred to the position of the old country in regard to your late struggle, I may be permitted to say a word. Reference is often made to certain vessels of war supplied at the other side in the interests of the South. But, sir, as a member of the British House of Commons, I believe that when the questions of the Alabama and Shenandoah are investigated, you will see that our government did everything in its power to prevent, but still could not prevent that which we all regretted. [Cheers.] You have referred to the fact of capitalists coming here during your struggle, and giving evidence, by investment, of a confidence in your future. It was impossible, Sir, on the other hand, in a free country, that there should not be a party identified with the party of the South as we were with the North. But I do maintain that our government did preserve all which you could at most desire—a dignified neutrality. [Hear, hear.] They never prevented arms being sent out to you, but when called upon by the Emperor of the French to acknowledge the South, the call was met on the part of the English Government by an emphatic "No." [Cheers.] A country like ours must have the freest exercise of opinion, but the moment international law is intrenched upon down comes the fingers of the government. When the rams were constructed our government interposed, [hear, hear,] and I may freely ask you to consider whether in the whole of your struggle it was in our power to do more. I have said on several occasions that the government of America is too proud and too strong and too independent to desire the interference of any power on earth in its domestic affairs. It desires simply to be left alone. [Cheers.] I owe you an apology for these political allusions, [cries of "Good," "Go on," &c.,] but you, Sir, have won them from me, and, taking your right hand, I am sure to take the hand of a man worthy to be ranked as a friend. [Cheers.] But to another subject. After all, it is to my friend Mr. McHENRY we owe everything. The history of the Atlantic and Great Western Railway is his best eulogy. Upon his representations, fifty millions of dollars were spent here during your great struggle, and no greater proof of confidence could be given to any man, than is implied in this fact, in regard of Mr. McHENRY—and, permit me to add, no greater proof that you have friends in the old country. The day is, I trust, not distant when England and America may feel a thorough union of heart and sentiment. You have your flag now floating over a country in which there is not a slave, and England now feels that your policy is hers, that hers is yours, and surely the two together may defy the world. [Great cheering.]

Other speeches were made and the party returned to the city highly pleased with the trip.

In the evening a grand ball was given at the Oliver House, which was attended by all the beauty and the chivalry of the town. It was eminently a success. Our party of sight-seers who had spent the previous night in a similar festivity, though of a more private nature, at Chicago, and were therefore physically "knocked up," as the Englishmen say, could not resist the temptation of dancing with the beautiful Toledo girls, with whom they reluctantly separated at 3 o'clock this morning.

The Detroit people intend to take the excursionists out upon the river this afternoon, and give them some sort of entertainment this evening.

To-morrow morning we leave for Niagara Falls.

ARIZONA.

How to Get There by Way of Sonora—A General Description of the Territory—Its Resources and Future Prospects—Evidence of Ancient Inhabitants—The Need of a Seaport—Emigrants and Capital Wanted.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

TUBAC, A. T., Saturday, July 15, 1865.

My last letter was written just before leaving the sea-coast for this seemingly distant country, from which I promised some time to write you. After half a year's sojourn within its borders, I propose to fulfill that promise—not that I hope to write you anything of unusual interest, but simply give you the impressions I have myself formed. It was not until J. ROSS BROWNE wrote his articles last year, that people on the Atlantic side of the continent had any definite idea of Arizona. He only gives an artist's view of it—gleanings from the roadside—impressions gained through the narrow opening of his ambulance, or from the lips of the few he met on his way, whose stories all partake more of romance than reality. His is a description that reads well in Harper's Magazine, if illustrated—not such an exhibit of the resources or attractions of the country as would lead the thinking, enterprising man to a further investigation.

Prior to the present difficulties in Mexico, the most practicable route here was by steamer from San Francisco to Guaymas, by stage to Hermosillo, and from thence by private conveyance—a route, after leaving the Gulf, tedious and not devoid of danger. Occasional glimpses of well-cultivated ranches and pleasant scenery relieve the monotony of the trip. In January, when we came up, it was with no small degree of pleasure that we gathered most luscious fruit from the over-ladened orange-trees, while we remembered you shivering over your anthracite in the home land. Large cotton plantations, too, gladdened the eye, while busy hands were at work gathering in the valuable crop. One Sonoranian, whose acquaintance we formed, had contracted his crop for $75,000! That part of Sonora seems peculiarly adapted to cotton and sugar; further north the cereals thrive. There are but few points along the whole route of 300 miles, where you see evidences of enterprise. The people generally are an indigent class, contented with almost nothing. A working man, once in debt, becomes a "peon," virtually a slave, subject to imprisonment if he attempts to leave, scarcely ever being able to get free from debt, his wages are so small. In fact they do not seem to care to, knowing that as long as they are "peoned" their creditor is bound to support them. Thus they live along, with scarcely clothes to cover them, their food a little flour, bran or pea soup, and sugar (penocha), while for luxuries a cigarette is the ultimatum of their chief desires. It is the fault of their government; they need a complete renovation of the whole system; they want Yankees among them; an emigration of the right stock would make their desert to blossom as the rose. It is to be hoped that rumors which have reached us of an intended emigration to that State are true; never did a country present greater inducements to the man of enterprise. At present we are shut off from Guaymas. PESQUEIRA, with his wavering and dissatisfied army, is at Hermosillo, while the French are at Guaymas. They have had two or three engagements, always resulting in the retirement of the Mexicans. In fact most of PESQUEIRA's men have deserted and are roaming about the State in lawless bands, to-day joining the Liberal party, to-morrow the Church faction. Sonora is in a terrible state of disorder; conscriptions and levies are the order of the day. Those who desire a condition of peace under almost any style of government, are ground down as with a despot's heel. The French in possession of their seaport occupy virtually the whole State, as there can be no communication from the interior. Libertad, higher up the Gulf from Guaymas, is at present impracticable as a port of entry.

This condition of things in Sonora places the people of Arizona in an unpleasant situation. Now our only means of communication with the outer world is by the Rio Grande to the States, or by Fort Yuma on the Colorado, to Los Angelos, and thence to San Francisco. This latter is the most feasible route at present, consuming nearly a month to complete the journey, and needing a world of patience and endurance. When the overland stages were running, arrangements were so complete, that the trip, considering the distance, was an easy one. It is to be hoped that now the cause of the withdrawal of this line is removed, it will be resumed from the States through. It is unquestionably the most feasible of all the overland routes, and eventually will be the great thoroughfare from the Atlantic to the Pacific. For a telegraph line it is vastly superior to the Northern one.

Arizona is taking her first steps to a high position in the family of States. She has commenced aright by adopting such a code of laws as will insure the highest protection and prosperity to her citizens. From rumors that have reached us we are encouraged to believe that government is awake to the importance of examining into the resources of the territory. The advent of Gen. MASON, with his column of California troops in our midst, has infused new life into the hearts of the few settlers who have survived the hardships of their isolated condition, and the relentless persecutions of the savages. Now, that there is a hope of protection, they are encouraged to cultivate their ranches. Already fine crops of wheat and barley have been harvested, while corn gives proof of an abundant yield. A splendid opportunity is offering to the enterprising farmer for another year to cultivate the land. Not only have these troops to be fed, but also a population daily increasing. At present most of our supplies are brought from Sonora. Immense tracks of land are here lying idle, rich and easily cultivated, only waiting for the energetic, industrious man to take peaceable possession. In time when they come into market they will be bought cheap; the holder will only have been making his own property valuable. Steps are being taken now to have the territory surveyed. "The early bird gets the worm." Gen. MASON, in company with Gov. GOODWIN, is making a tour of the country, establishing military posts and devising plans of action relative to dealing such a blow to the Apaches as will render them powerless for further mischief. These Indians have done more to retard the development of the country than anything else, from the moral effect their deeds of cruelty has had upon the minds of those thinking of emigrating hither. They have seemed omnipresent, ever lurking close at hand to strike their victims in an unguarded moment. Scarcely a day passed that we did not hear of parties being attacked, older ones killed, while children were taken into captivity. They are not so bold since the troops came. We believe from the energetic course the General is taking, that if the General Government sustain him, we shall soon be rid of this drawback to our prosperity. Then the country will be safe for emigration, and fill up rapidly. What are its inducements? The agricultural and chiefly mineral resources of a tract of land larger than any of the old States, containing at present not 5,000 people, Americans. Anything can be raised here that will grow in a northern climate, or in the same latitude south. The great drawback to agriculture at present is the scarcity of running water. This can be remedied by enterprise, as sufficient can be obtained by sinking wells or boring. A finer stock-raising country never existed. The time has been (so handed down by tradition) that these fertile valleys and gentle slopes were swarming with cattle.

As I said above, the chief resource of this territory is its mineral wealth. In all directions you will find evidences of old mines worked, while the outcroppings of new ones hold out most flattering encouragement to open them, where it can be done with safety. Mines are now being worked, yielding largely for amounts invested. They are being worked properly, too, the character of the veins being determined before large sums of monies are invested in machinery. The products pay expenses, in some cases, dividends quite liberal. There is one portion of Arizona now held by the Tonto Apaches, that we are anxiously waiting to have made tenable for white men. It is an established fact, that this portion contains extremely rich deposits of the precious metals. A few venturesome men have penetrated these wilds; fewer returned, but they have brought with them the most flattering proofs of the richness of the mines and their vast extent. The General intends to establish a military post there and fit out an expedition against this band. Then there will be an opportunity for the hardy, venturesome seeker for gold to gratify his desires. Rich placer diggings are said to abound there; astonishing stories are told of nuggets the Apaches used to bring out to exchange for powder and lead, but they would never permit the white man to follow them in.

The climate of Arizona is unsurpassed. No miasmatic diseases prevail. The air is mild and dry, well calculated for invalids, especially those suffering from pulmonary complaints. They seem to recover from the moment they reach the soil. The nights are delightfully refreshing; one can sleep out of doors anywhere with impunity; there are no dews. Although the thermometer often through the day indicates from 100 to 115 degrees, the heat is not oppressive, for there is always a fine breeze.

The Colorado and Gila (Hela) are the principal rivers. The Colorado is navigable for quite a distance from the Gulf for light craft. The scenery toward its source is very grand. One cañon especially through which it madly rushes, is well worth a visit from the tourist who admires nature's wildest, sublimest efforts. For thousands of feet on each side uprise perpendicular walls, time-polished, from whose giddy heights looking down a faint glimpse of the river is caught, cold and dark as death. A sunbeam never yet was reflected from that watery grave.

That this country was once inhabited by a class of people quite advanced in science and the fine arts is an indisputable fact. Evidence of this is seen in many places. There are relics of ancient cities, churches and aqueducts, which in their decayed and now almost obsolete state, indicate the work of master minds and almost unexampled labor. But who shall we refer to for a history of these people? The knowledge of them is buried with their ruins. The mind seeks in vain to satisfy its longings, to know who they were and from whence they came. The Papago Indians, who have made this section their home from time beyond their most ancient traditions, cannot throw a shadow of light on the inquiry of who were these pre-occupants of their lands. Old church records are destroyed; people and history have passed to Eternity. These Papago Indians are a peaceable, industrious and quite intelligent class. Their traditions are extremely interesting, connected as they are with the history of the Montezumas. I may send them to you some time. In days gone by they had Spanish priests among them, and still profess a belief in the Catholic religion. They have had no teachers for a long time; their church at San Xavier del Bac, now going to ruins, preserves enough of its former grandeur to indicate that once it was a piece of architecture worthy the fabrication of a master mind. At one time it possessed immense wealth. It is said that more than $15,000 in gold and silver candlesticks, were taken from it and carried to Mexico. The old Chief JOSKA, residing at San Xavier, has some very interesting Spanish records of this church. This tribe are very anxious to have teachers among them. It is a fine opportunity to do a good work at home by some of those societies, so concerned for the welfare of souls abroad. Missionaries can labor among them with perfect safety and promise of abundant reward. They are very desirous of learning agriculture and mechanics.

The Rimos are another tribe equally intelligent and desirous of enlightenment. They occupy a beautiful tract of country on the Gila. Physically, they are a splendid specimen of the red man. The Mohaves are said to be a nation loving peace, but valiant in war. You have had their chief in your city. The name of IRETABA must yet be fresh in memory. Little by little he unfolds to his tribe the wonders of the pale-face land; they will not believe all he says to them, but with an incredulous toss of the head whisper to one another, "IRETABA's head is turned." All these tribes are united against the Apaches, and are ready to send out warriors against them.

Gov. GOODWIN is giving the best of satisfaction in his position as Territorial Governor. It is strongly talked of sending him to Congress this Fall, believing that the interests of the Territory will not suffer in his hands. It will only be necessary to place the merits of the country in their true light before the people at home to arouse an interest in its speedy development, and not alone for its inherent worth, but from the relations it bears to another country now in the hands of foreigners.

We feel that "Americans should rule America," and America is the whole continent. The very liberal grants made for public improvements, the inducements held out to capitalists, by the Legislature of last Winter, ought to awaken an interest among your moneyed men at once. The port of Libertad should be opened, and a line of steamers running to it from Panama, connecting at Mazatlan with San Francisco steamers; a wagon-road should be opened from the port to Tucson, thence north, a route the most feasible from its natural advantages of any in the country.

A grand mistake of our government in the Gadsden purchase, was the failure to secure a port on the Gulf; but the most liberal arrangements can be made with the Mexican Government to open Libertad. This done, more than two hundred miles of land carriage are saved. Then there would be an inducement for working the very rich silver and copper mines near the coast, now dormant by reason of the expensive and uncertain means of transportation. A large number of these mines are only waiting to yield treasures which could be placed on shipboard at far less expense than is incurred in similar transactions on any South American coast, and the ores will pay a larger percentage. In time, of course, attention will be drawn to this; but why delay when there is so much of capital sleeping in your treasure-vaults at the East, which might be vastly increased in an enterprise that would assist in building up, in course of time, a full grown State, that would present a formidable barrier to foreign innovations? That there are rich mines here is an incontrovertible fact, but, as before said, at present they are worked in a small way; yet planchas of silver are produced which would cause quite a stir even among your "heavy men," if exhibited on 'Change.

Near Tucson they are now taking out quite large quantities of silver; also at the Mowry Mines. A Mexican who is working some of the Arizona Mining Company's ore at Cerro Colorado, tells me the yield from a ton will be eight hundred dollars. They have a mill constructing at this mine, but owing to the detention of materials in Guaymas, they are obliged to suspend operations for the present. The Eurequitta Gold Company have a mill near by completed, and from the unlimited supply of gold rock they have within a stones' throw of their works, the indications are that this pioneer mill will be a paying concern. They have several fine leads. North of the Gila River, reports come to us of the continued richness and success of mines there. Claims have been sold to San Francisco companies at enormous figures. Preparations are being made to bring in a large amount of machinery this year. The value of the mines is established beyond a doubt. At Cahaubi, some sixty miles from Tubac, very rich deposits of silver and copper have been opened. The success of these mines depends much now upon the facilities for shipment. If the road be opened to Libertad, the mines will be worth millions.

All that Arizona wants now is protection from the Indians, an overland mail, and a good Gulf port. She will then fill up rapidly, making immediate progress toward an important position. Who will be the pioneers in this enterprise, receiving as a reward honor and wealth, adding a new link to the chain that will girdle a continent?

"The wise do always govern their own fates,
And Fortune with officious zeal attends
To crown their efforts with success."

Now that the great struggle is over that has so long convulsed our land, the nation first in war, again first in peace, expects every man to be a patriot, lending a helping hand to blot out the indebtedness her necessities have incurred. In no way can this be better done than by assisting the improvement and development of her Territories, and thus rendering her lands marketable. We have the nucleus here of a loyal people, who, even at this great distance from the centre of our national struggles, have not escaped its calamities. They have remained true, and when the solemn tones of the requiem in memory of him who stood at the helm of the ship of State in all her tossings, and perished while on duty, came to their ears, with sad cadence, no deeper feelings of sorrow were stirred in hearts of the home-land; and, too, when the notes of your peace anthem came to us joyously, over vale and mountain top, no louder pæans of rejoicing were sung on the Atlantic shore. We are looking to you for help; we are expecting it; and when your capitalists shall have become so awake to the inducements we hold out as to give substantial proof of the same, a return will be made adequate to their most sanguine desires. The surplus population now thrown back upon you will be seeking adventures and homes. Point them hither, and when, in the days to come, we hold out our hand for adoption, you will never have given a welcome to a prouder or nobler State.

S. Q. LAPIUS.

—An extraordinary electrical phenomenon occurred recently in the forest of Chantilly. About 8 o'clock in the afternoon a waterspout passed across the forest, in less than five minutes destroying almost everything in its passage for a width of fifty yards and a length of nearly five miles. About six hundred trees, many of them oaks of large size, were either broken off close to the ground or torn up by the roots and shivered to splinters. Two of the rides, reserved for exercising the horses of MM. LUPIN and AUMONT, are so blocked up with broken trees as to be altogether impassable. The course of the waterspout began about two hundred paces from the station of Orry-la-Ville, and ended at the Garrfour St. Remi.

The Reunion of the Northern and Southern Churches.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I most respectfully ask permission to offer a few remarks on the subject of the reunion of the separated churches of the North and South. These remarks spring from the discussion of the topic in the columns of your paper during the week. I cannot speak for other churches. They have their own pens. But, being on a visit to this metropolis, I deem it due to my brethren of the Southern Methodist Church to offer a few remarks on the present aspects of the question, as I understand it.

The Methodist Episcopal Church was, by common agreement, divided into two great bodies, the Northern and the Southern, twenty-one years ago. Since that period they have respectively grown, in many respects, quite unlike. So unlike, indeed, that, for one, I deem the reunion an utter impossibility. The attempt, if forced upon the Southern people, would result in their total dispersion into other churches, or new organizations.

It should also be borne in mind that the peculiar structure of the Methodist Church does not make mere "union" essential to the accomplishment of its great spiritual mission. After the separation of the church into two great bodies—the Northern and Southern—it is a historical fact that they both prospered more than at any former period since the days of the sainted WESLEY. Nor is there any reason to suppose their reuniting would in any manner increase the usefulness of the body. And there is as much reason in requiring the restoration again of the Methodist Church of Canada, or the union of the British Wesleyans with the Northern Methodist Church, as for the reunion of that church with the Southern Methodist Church. All the courtesies of Christian intercourse can as easily be maintained between the two latter as they have been between the three former churches, without consolidation.

Beside, the "Union" would make the body too unwieldy in many respects for the free exercise of its own functions.

Already the quadrennial assembly, known as the General Conference in the Northern Church, must number two hundred and fifty members. That of the Southern has, perhaps, near two hundred. I cannot now pause to refer to statistics. If united, the body, in a few years, would number several hundred, and the expensiveness of holding such an assemblage would compel its division. Indeed, at no very remote day it may be found necessary to set off the Pacific States into a separate church, and probably others, by the Northern Methodist Conference, for the above and other reasons; then the Southern Church would again find it essential, also, to reëstablish her independence.

Nor is this all. The Church South feels the necessity of making several important changes in her general economy to meet the changed conditions of society and extend her usefulness, and she does not wish, nor mean to be embarrassed by those who never did, do not, and never can appreciate her character, claims and obligations.

The Evangelical Methodist Church knows nothing of politics. She will spread no flags for her sacramental solemnities. Nor will she bedizen the sacred pulpit with the symbols of political power: no; not even with

though, she will sincerely pray, that, it may

"Wave o'er the land of the free
And the home of the brave."

If, however, the "Union" were desired on the part of the Southern Church, the spirit and temper of the leading officials of the Northern Church are such as to forever repel her advances. Witness the Episcopal raid over the South "flanking" the houses of God, as horses were sometimes "flanked," by loose foragers who were foot-sore, and preferred to ride.* Witness the sanguinary demands in the leading journals for the hanging of eminent rebels, confiscation and penalties. Political journals exhibit far more of the spirit of the gospel than these Methodist journals, to say nothing of magnanimity. The Christian people of the South simply desire to be left in quiet. They understand their situation, and by the grace of God they will go forward in the performance of their duties. They will support the government, defend the constitution, observe the laws, render to CÆSAR the things that are CÆSAR'S, and to God the things that are God's.

But Southern Methodists would sooner seek repose and spiritual consolation in the bosom of the Roman Catholic Church, a thousand times over, than reënter the bosom of the Northern Methodist Church.

Indeed, we have been more kindly treated by the Catholics than by the Northern Protestants for the past twenty-five years.

And here another reason against reunion addresses itself to my thoughts.

From all I can learn, there is to be another war—a war for the extirpation of the Roman Catholic Church. When this battle comes on, come as it may, whether with the pen, the ballot or the sword, the Christian people of the South will stand up side by side with the assailed church. We intend to claim for ourselves the right to worship God according to the dictates of our own consciences and the teachings of the Word of God; and the South, true to her characteristic magnanimity, will be no party to the deprivation of any other church of the same inalienable right. In view of such a crisis and such a controversy, I would entreat all Southern Christian people to maintain their present separate status, letting the fury of Northern fanaticism expend itself in these disgraceful raids upon their ecclesiastical neighbors, while they give themselves to the work of the ministry and the feeding of the flock of Christ. Already the Northern Methodist Church stands up a boasting political power in the United States. Rev. Bishop SIMPSON boasts that that church elected the late President, ABRAHAM LINCOLN. The Southern Church never dreamed of tolerating the idea of so gross a departure from her holy mission of publishing the Cross.

Now, if this Northern Church, alone, elected one President, how long would it require the two churches combined to elect another, and then another?

Animated by the political ambition, and inspired with the idea of a gigantic and overshadowing church, the two bodies, melted together, would, or, to say the least, could control the future administration for all coming time.

So profoundly am I penetrated with the impending perils menacing the land, in prospect of the domination of an apostate Protestant hierarchy, that I feel compelled to warn my countrymen against giving encouragement to the consolidation and solidarity of great ecclesiastical establishments, whose ambition, on the one side at least, has been so recently flattered with the idea of having ruled the destinies of this country for the last four bloody years.

Are the American people prepared to surrender the control of their political fortunes to the unskilled hands of Protestant Prelates?

Are they ready to surrender the chaplaincies of Congress, the army, the navy; the Professorships and clerical offices of Annapolis and West Point to one great NATIONAL CHURCH?

Press this unnatural church reunion, and you encourage what may in the end prove a spiritual despotism that will make America as intolerable to liberty as the most despotic government that ever ruled a crushed and bleeding nation. For one, as I desire the freedom of the press, the freedom of ballot, the freedom of speech, and the freedom of worship, I will stand up in my place and remonstrate against any other union of the two churches than that of fraternal sympathy and good will, which the South will not fail to reciprocate when manifested. And, then, we of the South will invoke all true patriots and Christian people to look on and testify who best observes the spirit of the constitutional compact, the laws of the country, and the obligations of American citizenship.

When the South ceased her conflict with the North, she surrendered to God and the overpowering forces of the United States Government. Thus far, there she stands. But if haughty ecclesiastics in the North attempt to subjugate us as a church, and demand our surrender or capitulation to them, we beg to decline. It is the last thing we shall do.

Nor do we deem this conduct antagonistic to the interest, prosperity, future peace, union and happiness of the American States, but conducive in the highest degree to those important objects.

In this view of the matter I consider it the worst possible policy to agitate the subject of church reunions. Let the subject sleep. Let wise men be warned. Beware of political ecclesiastics. Beware of the pretensions of those who can make Presidents. They may, some day, unmake something. Let the Southern Church rest. Nobody has asked her to be united in wedlock. She has not rejected any proposal. My individual opinion, however, is, that none need be made; and, further, if the American people, outside of all churches, could view this unpleasant subject from my stand-point, they would unitedly join me in a solemn protest against any step toward the reconstruction of these sacred Christian bodies.

Doubtless some people in the South may accept in a small way, missionaries from the Northern Church, and some in the North may desire once more to hear the Gospel after the manner of the departed fathers. Let each take their course. The world is our parish. Millions are perishing—even under the shadow of Christian churches—for want of the bread of life. Let Ephraim and Judah cease to vex each other. If the South, with the sword in her hand, could not dissolve the Union, the Northern Methodist divines need give themselves no concern about the destinies of the nation, arising out of the independence of Southern Methodism.

With great respect, I am yours,

C. K. MARSHALL, Church South.

ST. NICHOLAS HOTEL, NEW-YORK, Sept. 20, 1865.

* True, the Secretary of War gave an order for seizing the Southern churches; but who put the unchristian and barbarous idea into his head? Who claimed the right, on the ground of eminent services rendered to the party at the ballot-box? But the noble President, not waiting for a decision of a tribunal already committed against everything Southern of a light color, has ordered all the churches to be restored, at once.

FRIDAY, Sept. 22—P. M.

The official announcement from the Treasury Department is made to-day that the November coupons on the 5-20 United States Loans will be paid in advance on or after Monday next, Sept. 25, on presentation to any of the Assistant Treasurers of the United States, in Gold. It will be a very great satisfaction to the Government if this notice is immediately and extensively availed of by the 5-20 Bondholders, as more than double the amount of Gold Customs, to pay the entire November interest of $18,197,085, is now on hand. Such, however, has not been the experience heretofore of similar orders for the prepayment of Gold Interest, and we can only hope that it will be different in the present case, because of the extreme anxiety of the Secretary of the Treasury to disburse the Gold at once, and the probability that when the transfers of Registered 5-20 Stock are closed on the 30th inst., the Stock Exchange Board will direct both the Registered and Coupon Stock to be dealt in after Oct. 1, as ex-November interest. If this should be done, there will be no motive left to the holders of the Coupon Bonds to delay calling for their interest growing out of the market quotation of the Bonds.

The market for Exchange for the mails of Saturday, suddenly broke down after 1 o'clock to-day to 109⅜@109½ ⅌ cent. on London, for the standard Bank Bills. This abatement of ⅛@¼ ⅌ cent. from the extreme pretensions of the morning, was unexpected and unexplained. The price of Gold gave way to 143⅜@143½ ⅌ cent. early in the forenoon, at which quotation it closed at 3 o'clock, though the Customs demand for the day was about $600,000. The announcement of the prepayment of the 5-20 Gold Interest had some influence on the market, and if the prepayments begin on Monday, with a fair degree of spirit, the arrangement will tend very materially to the relief of the Gold market, either in the way of Customs or for Export, should the latter become important.

The market for Money continues easy to the Stock Brokers at 5@6 ⅌ cent., but there is more demand from the Discount Brokers, who are offering prime and good Merchant paper from 7 to 9 ⅌ cent. ⅌ annum. A few choice signatures are done at 6½ ⅌ cent. ⅌ annum. There is an increased inclination to insert balances in the 6 ⅌ cent. Compound Legal-Tender Notes of the 1864 dates, in the belief that the Secretary of the Treasury may soon conclude to reduce this description of Legal-Tender Notes, as he is authorized to do by the Loan Act of March, 1865, by funding or converting a portion of them into a Gold-bearing Stock of the United States, on unusually fair terms. If anything of the sort is done, it will look to the permanent reduction of the Legal-Tender Currency. The Act does not authorize the further borrowing of Money, or the funding of ordinary Legal-Tender Greenbacks, but only to the funding of Interest-bearing Treasury Notes or Certificates of Indebtedness.

Although a movement of the above character has been freely canvassed among the leading Money Brokers here and in Philadelphia and Washington, dealing heavily in Government Securities, for a day or two past, the Gold bearing stocks of the United States, particularly 5-20s, have rapidly advanced in the face of the rumors, and the original issue sold this afternoon at 108¼, and the new Bonds at 106¼@⅜ ⅌ cent., including, of course, the November Coupons. The 10-40s are 94¾@⅞, and the 6 ⅌ cents. of 1881, 107¾@108 ⅌ cent.

The Railway speculation continued its revival, and the advance established on the actual sales of the day, indicate a more decided upward movement than we have reported for a fortnight past. The best feature for the Bulls is the increased amount of business and the wider distribution of orders over the Railway and Miscellaneous list.

At 4 o'clock the following quotations were made, as compared with Thursday afternoon. The rise in Reading was to 109¼, partly on the extraordinary Coal tonnage of 94,000 tons, this week, reported by telegraph. There is a large activity in Erie shares, at an advance of 1@1¼ ⅌ cent. Gold left off 143⅜:

The Panama Company have ordered a division of their extra profits or Sinking Fund to their Shareholders, in proportion of two shares to every original five shares; that is, an extra dividend of 40 ⅌ cent., or $2,000,000 on $5,000,000, so as to raise the Capital to something near the cost of the property, the original morgage upon it having been paid off by the process of the Sinking Fund. For the original shares 300 ⅌ cent. was bid this morning. The Company have also raised their quarterly cash dividend from five to six per cent., or from 20 to 24 ⅌ cent. a year.

The National Banks in Vermont held a meeting on the 14th inst. at the First National Bank in Burlington, at which it was resolved:

"That while we cordially approve the provision of the National Currency Act which requires every country National Bank to redeem its bills at some National Bank in one of certain enumerated cities, and will, in good faith, sustain the same, we are opposed to, and will unitedly resist, any effort by certain banks in some of such cities [meaning the assorting scheme in New-York] to compel us to redeem in any other manner in such cities, and thereby become tributary to such banks."

The meeting also resolved that the Vermont delegation in Congress be requested to procure such amendments to the National Banking Law as will secure to the State an adequate bank capital under the new system, in view of the final liquidation of the old State Bank system. Twenty of the National Associations in Vermont were represented at the meeting.

We regard these proceedings as a significant specimen of the determined purpose of the country at large to resist the attempt now making, outside the Laws of Congress, to centralize the control of (or else break down) the National Currency system in this City. What is already doing in Vermont will soon be done by the National Bankers in every State in the Union, and it would be well, we think, for the getters-up of the assorting, sealing and running machine now contemplated in this city, to reflect upon the nature and tendency of the influence which may be thus brought to bear upon Congress next Winter.

The Commercial says we "reprobate" the Bank officers who agree with the Secretary of the Treasury on National Bank Note redemption. We do nothing of the sort. The Secretary favors no such extortionous scheme as these gentlemen are aiming at. He is for Currency redemption at the commercial centres and so are we, and so is the amended Banking Law of Mr. MCCULLOCH's own shaping. So too is the voluntary concurrence of every Country National Bank throughout the Union. Nine-tenths of them already redeem at one or other of the three Atlantic cities. The other tenth could probably be persuaded to change their redemptions from the Western Commercial centres, to which, in the language of the Secretary their local currents of trade now tend, to New-York, Philadelphia or Boston, but never driven to New-York exclusively by the threats of assorting, sealing up and running home their Notes.

We have received the following copy of a note from the National Bank of the Commonwealth of this city, whose officers have uniformly opposed the assorting and sealing machine. The original note is addressed to the Committee of Bank Officers:

GENTLEMEN: In response to the application made to this bank to unite in the formation of an Assorting-house to enforce the redemption of notes of the National Banks, the officers state that, in their judgment, the provisions of the National Currency Act are fully adequate to secure the redemption of these notes to the full extent of the requirements of the public, and that this bank has not now, and at no time has had, an amount equivalent to one-twentieth of the average amount of its legal-tender notes. Hence, they do not feel justified in subjecting the bank to the expense and great risk necessarily involved in the establishment of an Assorting-house. Very respectfully,

EDWARD HAIGHT, President.

GEORGE ELLIS, Cashier.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

NOTICE.

To capitalists desirous of embarking in the brewing business, have a chance of purchasing a brewery in one of the Western States.

The proprietor, having made a handsome fortune in a few years, will be willing to sell out at any time, and impart a general knowledge of producing the best grades of malt liquors, which has brought the highest prices known in the American markets for the past ten years.

The Mash Tun is in full work at 200 bushels per day, and a malt-house adjoining equal to its acquirements.

All particulars known on application to G. W. C., Box No. 656 Post-office, Detroit, Mich.

N. B.—To prevent trouble, no one need apply who cannot control a capital of $40,000 or $50,000.

FOR SALE—A BUSINESS WHICH CAN BE ESTablished in any city or large town West, South or East; it is protected by letters patent; has been in successful operation in New-York for three years, where it can be seen, and any amount of reference obtained in its favor; it requires but little capital to carry it on; is attended with none of those outside expenses and perplexities of ordinary business; it is strictly cash and connected with the more wealthy class of people. Any person looking for business upon which to locate, in any city but New-York, cannot find anything which, for the capital invested, begins to compare with it. Address, with real signature, E. NEWS OF THE DAY.

GENERAL NEWS.

The trial of Capt. WIRZ was continued yesterday. Among the witnesses examined was Dr. HOPKINS, who testified that he was commissioned together with Surgeon WHITE to make a thorough inspection of the prison and hospital, with a view to their improvement. The report of these gentlemen, addressed to Gen. WINDER, was read. It appears from this that the commission found the prison in the most horrible condition, and in accordance with their instructions they made a series of suggestions, which, if carried into effect, would have tended greatly to ameliorate the suffering of our men. But this was never done, though they were all practicable, and would have involved little expense to the rebels. Most of the labor would have been gladly performed by the prisoners. The old, dreadful story was further confirmed by the testimony of other witnesses.

BENJAMIN G. GREEN, the postmaster of Mystic, Conn., was sentenced to 10 years in the State Prison at Hartford, Wednesday, for stealing between $200 and $300. JERRY TOWNSEND, who stole $100,000, got only seven years. GREEN was tried before a United States Circuit Court, and TOWNSEND before a Connecticut jury, and that's the difference between United States and Connecticut justice.

The Mississippian says that the country along the line of the Mississippi Central Railroad is in the most desirable state of repose—no guerrillas, no robbers, no violence. All have turned their hands to peaceful pursuits, and the demoralization caused by the terrible ordeal of the past four years is being obliterated.

The Alabama State Convention has passed resolutions ratifying all the acts of the Legislature during the war, not inconsistent with the Constitution of the United States. It also resolved to ratify the present State Constitution, with a few modifications.

JAMES W. DUNCAN, who ill-treated some of our prisoners at Andersonville, and who was summoned as a witness in the Wirz trial, has been committed to the Old Capitol prison. He was arrested on Thursday in the court-room where WIRZ is being tried.

The Provincial Fair at London, C. W., was visited by Sir MORTON PETO and party, who arrived at noon. Sir MORTON PETO made a speech full of kindly feeling toward the American people, and left for the East at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Several gentlemen of Washington have purchased 144 acres of land on the east side of the railroad, near Laurel, which they propose to divide into eighteen-acre lots, for country seats, at $60 per acre.

By the explosion of the steamboat Nimrod, yesterday morning, at Pittsburgh, Capt. MCCORMICK, the commander of the vessel, was killed and several others were wounded.

Great preparations are making at Hudson for the fair to be held in that city on the 26th inst. Premiums from $50 to $200 are offered on horses from any part of the country.

Information has been received of the death of two missionaries in Turkey, Rev. EDWARD DODD and Rev. HOMER BARTLETT MORGAN. The former died of cholera and the latter of typhus fever.

Gen. POPE has made a general reorganization of the Department of the Missouri.

LOCAL NEWS.

In the Police Courts, yesterday, there were many interesting trials—the most noteworthy of which we epitomise as follows: Capt. BOWEN G. LORD, of the Sanitary Police, acting under orders from the Metropolitan Police Commissioners, made affidavit against Mr. CHARLES SHERMAN, proprietor of the tenement dwellings Nos. 220 and 222 East Seventeenth-street, reciting that these edifices, which are only 50x45 feet square and five stories (of eight feet each) in height, contain thirty-eight families, embracing 152 persons, and are not only not properly ventilated, but are filthy in the extreme. Capt. LORD further alleges that more than a hundred cases of fever have occurred in these pestilence-breeding quarters within a twelvemonth. Mr. SHERMAN having appeared before Justice DODGE and agreed to cleanse and fumigate his houses and make them habitable, the complaint was dismissed......Justice LEDWITH committed EDWARD GILMORE, of No. 86 Mulberry-street, shoemaker, for stealing a watch from Mr. ENOS B. MOORE, of No. 131 East Houston-street, while in a Fourth-avenue car. ......Before Justice DODGE, Mr. EUGENE EVANS, of No. 106 Third-avenue, preferred complaint against PATRICK GLENNAN and THOMAS KELLY, for felonious assault. In a saloon at No. 34 Oak-street, yesterday morning, GLENNAN stabbed Mr. EVANS in the abdomen, inflicting a fearful gash whence the intestines protruded....CHAS. BURGDORF, AUGUSTA BURGDORF and MARY HOPF were committed by Justice DODGE, for examination by Fire-Marshal BAKER, on a charge alleging that they had set fire to the cabinetmaker's shop on the third story of No. 232 West Thirty-fifth-street. BURGDORF had $1,500 insurance in the Peoples' office, and Policeman ADAM MOULIGAN, who arrested the accused, thinks that BURGDORF's entire stock was not worth $500. A remarkable circumstance in this connection is that on Thursday night, evidences of incendiarism having been discovered, Fire-Marshal BAKER was summoned to BURGDORF's place, and he cautioned BURGDORF to desist....Justice SHANDLEY committed LEWIS KRONE, of No. 81 Allen-street, for stabbing Mr. GEORGE HENRY ORR, of No. 151 Ludlow-street, inflicting a serious wound in the face. The assault was committed at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, at the intersection of Grand-street and the Bowery.

An incendiary fire, at about 2 o'clock yesterday morning, destroyed CHARLES BURGDORF's cabinet manufactory, CHRISTOPHER KOCH's carpenter-shop, FREDERICK WOLTER's grocery, SIMPSON & Co.'s wool-dressing establishment, CURTIS VOLLEN's grocery, and furniture belonging to several families who occupied the upper stories of Nos. 230, 232, and 234 West Thirty-fifth-street. The loss is estimated at $5,000. The buildings, which were owned by Mr. ANDREW MCLEAN, were partly insured, and the People's, Rutgers, and Grocers' offices lose about $4,000 on other property. BURGDORF, who is alleged to have made preparation for incendiarism on Thursday night, was then cautioned by Fire Marshal BAKER; but he exhibited one insurance policy, showing only $600 insurance, and the Fire Marshal went away thinking it preposterous to suspect the man of incendiary intent. It now appears that BURGDORF had $1,500 insurance, and in the opinion of an officer his stock was not worth 500. BURGDORF, his wife, and one MARY HOPF, were arrested and held to answer for incendiarism.

It having been announced that Major-Gen. JOSEPH HOOKER would visit the fair of the American Institute last evening, hosts of our citizens flocked thither to see the General and the fair. The distinguished guest arrived at 8:30 o'clock, and after taking a tour of the building, under escort of Gen. HALL and several managers of the fair, he was escorted to a platform and introduced. The multitude insisting upon a few words from his lips, the General said that inasmuch as no one desired to hear a speech upon politics or of war, and as only agriculture and the mechanic arts were appropriate topics there, he begged to be excused until he could take a survey of the exhibition. He was repeatedly cheered.

Coroner GOVER held an inquest, yesterday, over the body of JACOB PFEIFFER, an aged German, who was run over about a week ago by a truck at the intersection of Avenue A and Tenth-street. The jury found that the occurrence was accidental.

A brisk business was transacted in Government securities yesterday, especially in the gold-bearing bonds, prices of which were decidedly firmer and quite buoyant, influenced by the anticipatory payment of the November interest on the 5-20's, ordered by Secretary MCCULLOCH to be formally commenced on Monday next, the 25th inst. The brokers commenced buying the coupons yesterday, paying a premium of 43 per cent., or within a fraction of the premium on gold. Considerable numbers of the city holders of the bonds availed themselves of the opportunity to dispose of their coupons, generally investing the proceeds in the 7-30 Treasury Notes, which were in fair supply and demand at 99@99¼. Sixes of 1881 closed strong at 108; old 5-20s, 108⅛@108¼; new 5-20s, 106⅛@106¼. Ten-forties advanced to 94¼, and were in much better request. Altogether the day's business in governments was quite animated, the demand coming mainly from buyers for permanent investment. The 5-20s of both issues are now in very moderate supply in the open market, and orders for round lots could not be easily executed at anything like prevailing rates.

During the present week there have been admitted to the bar by the General Term of the Supreme Court, now in session in this city, five military gentlemen, all of whom have taken an active part in the cause of their country during the late rebellion, and some of them are well known as among the bravest Generals of the war. Their names and the States of which they are native, are as follows: Col. HILLYER, of Gen. GRANT's Staff, State of Illinois; CHAS. B. and E. H. STOUGHTON, of Vermont, one a Brigadier and the other a Major-General; LUCIUS C. DUNCAN, of the State of Louisiana, and MOODY B. SMITH, of North Carolina. They were admitted by order of the court on the motion of lawyers of such standing as Ex-Justice WM. MITCHELL, JAMES T. BRADY, E. H. STOUGHTON, &c. The usual oath to support the constitution having been administered by the clerk they all signed the rolls, and henceforth they are civilians and officers of the court.

In the dry goods line there has been less animation within the week, and domestic fabrics, especially Cottons, have been much depressed in price, under accumulating supplies. Foreign productions have been quoted quite firm, in view of the reduced stocks available, though business has been less extensive recently. The week's entries of foreign dry goods amounted to $1,894,054.

The Government Stocks were further advanced yesterday to 108¼ and 106¼ for the original and new issues respectively of the 5-20 Bonds. The other Gold-bearing Stocks were also firmer, and the Railway speculation strongly upward. The rates of Exchange on London gave way after 1 o'clock to 109¼@109⅜ ℔ cent., and Gold was ⅛@¼ lower than on Thursday, closing 143¼ ℔ cent.

A fair business was transacted yesterday in Flour, Grain, Lard, Whisky, Groceries, Hay, Leather, Petroleum, Seeds and Tobacco, at buoyant prices. Cotton was in less demand and heavy. Freights were quiet.

The Candidates and the Parties.

In connection with the fact that two Generals of our army are in nomination for the Gubernatorial chair of Ohio, by the two opposing political parties, we recently reprehended certain party papers of that State for their attempts to distort and blacken the military record of one or other of these gentlemen to subserve partisan ends. Since that time two Generals have been nominated by the two parties of this State for the important office of Secretary of State. Both of these political candidates have an honorable record as soldiers, and we trust that in the canvass now opened there will be no attempt on the part of any man to belittle or dispute the services of either. Assaults of this kind will certainly redound to the advantage of the party assailed. In no Republican paper have we seen a word of detraction from Gen. SLOCUM's merits as a true soldier; and we are pleased to say that of the Democratic papers which have reached us since the nomination of Gen. BARLOW, on Wednesday, all have pursued a similar course in his case.

We have no idea that either of these officers, or either of the officers who are political candidates in Ohio, are thin-skinned, or would fear the most searching investigation into their conduct in every campaign and upon every battle-field. But what is to be deprecated by all true soldiers, is the making of their military career a subject for that sort of animadversion which has unhappily been too common in electioneering campaigns. As to questions of general ability, personal fitness for the office, &c., these of course enter as elements of choice in all elections, whoever may be candidates.

There are sufficient grounds on which to conduct the contest in this State, in the character, history and purposes of the respective parties. The grand devotion of the Republican party to freedom ever since the party's birth; its unflinching devotion to the Union under all circumstances, in darkness and distress as well as in sunshine and peace; its steadfast and mighty labors to crush rebellion in the South, and to defeat the machinations of Copperheads in the North; the magnanimity of the policy which the Republican administration is now carrying out; the certainty that so long as it controls public affairs, American honor, American credit, American justice and freedom to all, will be firmly and everywhere upheld; in such vital matters as these are sufficient reason for our cleaving to the Republican party, and laboring heartily for its success. And in the history of the so-called Democractic party—to go back no further than the past five eventful years—we find in the conduct of the party at the outbreak of the rebellion; in the fact that every State which seceded was under its dominion; in the fact that nearly all the rebel leaders were of its faith; in the fact that even in the North, as a party, it opposed the popular and glorious struggle for Union, when that struggle began in 1861, opposed it in 1862, opposed it in 1863, opposed it in 1864, opposed it this year, and never spoke of it otherwise than with sneers and hatred until it reached a triumphant conclusion, when suddenly, with a duplicity worthy of the party, it condescends to speak patronizingly of that which now needs no favor. The conduct, we say, of the Democratic party during the war and prior to it; the attitude of the Democratic party toward the country in the day of its distress—these, in all their infamous details, we ask every true American to recall, and he will find here enough reason for spurning such a party.

Not thus soon, certainly, can the people forget how the Republican party has stood and how the Democratic party has stood; what have been the utterances of the respective party conventions, State and National; what the action of the two parties in Congress on all patriotic measures; what the sentiments of the various leaders; what their course toward our soldiers; what their utterances among the people.

And when to the luminous, patriotic and consistent record of the Union-Republican party is added the fact that it has nominated a State ticket composed of men unsurpassable in character, in strength, in ability, in patriotism, and in every personal merit, we feel confident that they will stand by it now as it has always stood by the country.

Secretary Stanton.

The Secretary of War is no popularity hunter, and has an invincible repugnance to being lionized. He means that his visit to New-York shall be of the most quiet character; and all the world has learned that what he means he executes. It is absolutely refreshing to see an American of his force and fame moving with so little noise and show—content with the friendly courtesies of private life.

Undoubtedly there is some natural lack in the Secretary of the elements which easily kindle popular enthusiasm. His cast of character is too severe for that. He is too self-contained, unbending, unimpressible. Again, he has been, through the war, in the most invidious of positions. He had not only to take the brunt of the spite of the designing thousands who were disappointed in getting contracts from his department, or who were held to the strictest fulfillment of them, but had to stand the rage of all whose sedition invoked the strong arm of the government. Probably no public man in this country was ever the object of such intensity of hate as Secretary STANTON drew upon himself from the copperheads of the rebellion for his holding their faction in check by exemplary arrests in extreme cases. It mattered not that the Representatives of the people in Congress had marked out this line of action by the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus, or that President LINCOLN declared in public letters and speeches that he took all the responsibility of Mr. STANTON's official action, the wrath was concentrated upon the Secretary. Every malignant passion of the human soul contributed to it, until it became an absolute torrent of venom. He was not moved. Though it continued for months and years, he wavered not in the discharge of his full duty. But this keeping of the rebel sympathizers of the North within bounds was but an incidental part of his work. The administration of the War Department, comprehending all that related to the raising, equipping, and subsisting of the most colossal army of modern times, devolved upon him. With all the aids that could be gained by a systematic subdivision of responsibility and labor, his own task was still Herculean. That he accomplished it at all is surprising; that he accomplished so well is marvelous. We believe that the records of all modern governments would be searched in vain for an instance of such vast and complex administrative duties discharged with greater efficiency or rectitude. It has cost an ability and a toil of which the public has as yet but a faint conception. When the history of this war comes to be completely written, then, and not until then, will the service of the head of the War Department be adequately understood and appreciated.

The vituperation that has been poured out against Secretary STANTON has been powerless against the unqualified tributes of admiration freely rendered by ABRAHAM LINCOLN, Lieut.-Gen. SCOTT, Lieut.-Gen. GRANT, and other men most cognizant of his public service, and best qualified to judge it. All memory of this abuse will soon pass away; and the very names of those who vented it will rot and perish. Among the many towering reputations made by this war, few, if any, are composed of more enduring elements than the reputation of EDWIN M. STANTON. The iron staunchness, the tireless industry, the Spartan integrity, the gigantic grasp of the Secretary of War in the time of the Great Rebellion will be remembered to the last day of the republic.

Negro Emigration—Commissioner Mitchell's Brief.

The question of what shall be done with the negro was one of the most complicated which the war called forth. And among the methods proposed for his benefit, assisted emigration to various tropical regions has been much discussed. In the pamphlet which Mr. MITCHELL has just issued, he furnishes a statement of the action of President LINCOLN and the late Congress in regard to such emigration, and the present condition of the question. Quoting the Act of July, 1862, authorizing the President to make provision for colonizing such of the colored race as were willing to emigrate, Mr. MITCHELL calls attention to the Emancipation Proclamation of September 1862 and January 1863, which he considers contain solemn obligations to carry out the provisions of that act. The commission to Mr. MITCHELL was issued on August 4, 1862, and is still unrevoked. The funds necessary were provided by a clause in the tax law of June 1862, the amount subject to requisition on July 31 of the present year being $205,980. Mr. MITCHELL now says:

> "I intend to calmly take my stand on the proclamation of emancipation and its attendant oath, and be found asking the rulers of this nation the fulfillment of the compact, liberal and just as it is—emancipation for the slave, and colonization of a free and voluntary kind. In opposition to the labor-monger, North as well as in the South, and as formidable now in the former as in the latter, we ask nationality for the African race, and finally their undisturbed rule in the Tropical Belt; we ask no hasty action, but calm, equitable, just and well-considered action; yet we protest against retrogression in what has been already done."

As to the localities which may be considered favorable to emigration by the colored race, are mentioned Liberia, Hayti, and the British Colonies of Honduras and Guiana, for which reliable agencies exist. The contracts made with regard to Chirique and the Island of A'Vache are not recognized by Mr. MITCHELL, as he authorized neither, and they were formed without even his knowledge; but the British Colonies named are, he says, desirous to muster, ship and settle such negroes as are willing to go, and will do so without cost to us.

As the extract above indicates, the present is regarded as the proper time for action on the subject. We may be permitted to question this, however. True, the war is over and the emancipation of the negro is virtually accomplished. But it is another question, whether the fact of the negro becoming free involves the necessity, or even the propriety, of endeavoring to transplant him from the soil on which he has been accustomed to labor. That labor has been rendered under heavy disadvantages and severe coercion, which are in process of being removed. The question of emigration is not now, as it formerly was, forced upon us by the difficulties political and social, of slavery. And slavery ceasing to be an element in the question, there remains only the considerations of how far the negroes may consult their own interests and happiness by remaining where they are, under their new relations to their employers, and how far those employers need their services in restoring the productiveness and prosperity of the South. In this connection the natural aptness of colored men for the kind of labor which they have performed and will continue to perform, has to be borne in mind. The white man has, it is said, proved during the war that open air work in the South does not disagree with him, and to a certain extent the proof may be satisfactory. But a four years' campaign involves no test of the permanent effect of climate upon races, and the question can only be settled after a generation of white men has been raised among the cotton fields and rice plantations.

There are thus difficulties at the outset in discussing this question which it is impossible to ignore. The South wants the negroes without doubt, and it has not been yet proved that the negroes would not rather stay where they are.

But in another part of his pamphlet Mr. MITCHELL says: "I trust that the leaders of the colored race will lend their aid in due time." Does not this indicate that up to the present time these leaders, intelligent as we know many of them to be, have not looked favorably upon the plan of assisted emigration? Nay, have not those leaders in more than one instance claimed that the United States was their home, and for which, in spite of the social ban existing against them, they felt affectionate regard? At all events, the fact is patent that in no great degree has there been a desire manifested among them to try the experiment of beginning life amid new scenes and associations. And on the whole it seems to us that the first business in order with regard to the colored people is to perfect the relations in which they stand toward their former owners, so that a new era may be inaugurated of mutual trust, usefulness and content.

Spanish-Italian Amity.

If it is true that the son of VICTOR EMANUEL is about to espouse the daughter of the Queen of Spain, there might seem cause either to fear much for the Italians or to hope much for the Spaniards. The rumored alliance would set a seal upon the diplomatic relations recently established between the two countries, and would go far to heal the hurt which the Re Galantuomo inflicted on his Bourbon cousin of Spain, by consenting to receive at the hands of GARIBALDI the crown rent from his Bourbon cousin of Naples. Since it is rumored that the King has lately shown a tendency to favor the least liberal faction of politics among his subjects, the match might afford some further crumbs of comfort to the patient Reaction which has gone empty so long in Italy. It might be taken as a sign that the revolution, which placed VICTOR EMANUEL at the head of nearly all the Italian States, had accomplished itself, and that generous patriotism was hardening into selfish order. The Pope might look with satisfaction on a union of the family of his erring son with that of most Catholic Spain, and might cordially join with the heirs of FRA DIAVOLO, (to whom VICTOR EMANUEL still pays the pension bestowed on their illustrious ancestor,) in rejoicing over the introduction into Italy of that royal Spanish blood which has always been so favorable to brigandage.

We are unable, however, to take this view of the matter. We think there is much more to encourage Spanish Liberals in the alliance of the reigning families than to dishearten Italian patriots, and we look at the show of friendliness which has recently taken place between Spain and Italy as evidence of a great advancement of the principles of national and individual freedom in Latin Europe.

The Kingdom of Italy exists to-day as a protest against alien and ecclesiastical domination. With all its incompleteness of destiny, and with all the moral imperfection of its people, it is still the embodiment of the idea that each nation shall be political law to itself, and each man shall hold and believe or disbelieve any creed that he pleases. No doubt the public system does not express all the force of the latter principle. Italy is yet apparently Catholic, but Italy is certainly no longer papistical, and she is at this moment probably the most actively Protestant of all the European Powers. Her territorial integrity is incessant protest against the temporal dominion of the Pope; she has already the greater share of the Church's earthly kingdom, and she demands the rest; while her toleration and protection of Protestantism (which is free in Naples and Milan as in New-York) among her people is a signal declaration against his spiritual supremacy. She is the most wayward daughter of the Church, and we doubt if she shall ever be won back to submission by threats or caresses; reasons, Rome has none, of course.

The spectacle of the recently-established friendship between such a modern Protestant country as this and old-world, devout Spain, is therefore interesting and curious, as well as significant. It must be confessed that Spain has approached reconciliation with accomplished facts in a spirit of great deliberation and dignity; and that Italy has waited for her advances with a comfortable patience almost amounting to indifference. Of the two causes of displeasure given to Spain in the erection of the new Italian kingdom, it would be hard to say which was the greater, the expulsion of the Bourbons from Naples, or the appropriation of the Romagna, and Italy's subsequent unfilial prosperity and happiness under the wrath of the Church. It is probable, however, that the conquest of Naples was less obnoxious to Spain than Italy's disrespect to the Pope. At any rate, the funds for playing the pleasant farce of diplomatic relations with a King in his carriage on the Pincian Hill, and a Queen shooting cats in the garden of the Farnese Palace at Rome, were withdrawn some time ago, and the appropriation for the Spanish Ambassador to the Court of FRANCIS II., formerly of Naples, was struck out of the budget. The business of Italy's attitude toward the Church was more difficult to settle in the mind of Spain, and she has but just now found reasons for pardoning it. We are at a loss to imagine what these reasons are, and we doubt if Italy helped her to them. Indeed, that country has gone on perfecting her system of civil and religious liberty, very much as if Spain and some small German duchies had never sent her to Coventry at all. There appears, however, to have been the utmost good nature on her part throughout, and we read that she promptly responded to Spain's overtures; received her ambassador at Florence, and sent an Italian envoy to Madrid at once.

As far as regards the political state of Europe, the establishment of diplomatic relations between the two countries has very little importance, we think, and the intermarriage of their reigning families would have still less, if possible. But there is a moral significance in the fact which should not be overlooked. There must have been in Spain the most bitter and determined opposition, on the part of bigotry and reaction, to overcome, before the government could be brought to the recognition of the Kingdom of Italy; and that this opposition has been beaten down at last proves a state of enlightenment and hopefulness among the Spaniards commensurate with the progress which their country is making in material civilization. While the diplomatic relation means very little for Europe, it means very much for Spain. It means triumph of modern ideas over ancient traditions; of intelligence over prejudice; of civilization over barbarism. There is probably nothing at all generous in this Spanish adhesion to facts of history; but there is, nevertheless, something hopeful. It will scarcely add strength to the great fabric of independence and freedom which the Italians are rearing; but it will encourage the spirit of progress in Spain, where national unity is secure, to work out political liberty and individual independence of thought and faith.

THE TAX ON BROKERS' SALES OF BONDS.—Judge NELSON, sitting in the United States Circuit Court, at Cooperstown, recently, as our readers are aware, declined to issue the injunctions which were prayed for by some of our bankers and brokers against the Assessors and Collectors of Internal Revenue, to prevent them from collecting the tax which the Treasury Department claims to be payable upon sales of United States Bonds by these bankers and brokers for their own account. It is not by any means to be understood that this decision arose from any new doubt which had sprung up in the Judge's mind as to the illegality of the tax, for he says again, in his decision, that though the question is not a clear one, his best justment is that the tax cannot be legally imposed. The injunction is refused in accordance with that well-known principle that an injunction "is always refused where there is a remedy at law."

It is to be presumed, therefore, that the government officers will proceed to collect the tax, pending the decision of the question by the Supreme Court. And, although it would seem to be a more proper course for the department to have acquiesced in the decision of the courts, and to have governed itself accordingly, so long as the decision stood unreversed, yet since the contrary course has been adopted, we need not shut our eyes to the fact that there are some advantages in the course which is pursued.

There is the manifest advantage to the government that the tax is much more certain to be paid than it would be if the collection was postponed till after the decision of the Supreme Court. If that decision is in favor of the views of the law held by the Treasury Department, there will no doubt have been less loss to the government than would result from pursuing the other course.

Nor is this manifest advantage to the government clearly overbalanced by any disadvantage to the taxpayer. It is true that he will be compelled to pay a sum of money which, perhaps, he ought not to be called upon for. But if the Supreme Court shall ultimately decide that the tax is not collectable, he will not have lost the money which he has paid. He will have been put to the trouble and expense of a suit against the collector and assessor for their illegal action, but he runs no risk of losing his money by the inability of the defendants to repay when ordered by the courts, for the Internal Revenue Act makes special provision for the repayment by the government of any judgments recovered by any one against the Internal Revenue officers for any such cause.

There will, however, be no need, we should suppose, for any extensive litigation, for although the department declines to be governed by the views of the Circuit Court as to the law, it can hardly be expected that it will take the same position in relation to the Supreme Court. The decision of that court on the point in the case, which has already gone there, will therefore probably be all that is necessary, and if it is adverse to the government, all taxes which have been collected will doubtless be at once refunded.

All, therefore, that parties upon whom the government calls for this tax have to do, is to pay it under protest with the best grace they can assume, and seeing only that their rights are wholly reserved, wait patiently for the decision of the Supreme Court next Winter, and for the action of the government thereupon.

GAS COAL.—THE BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD.—A singular policy has been adopted by the Baltimore and Ohio Railway Company in the inauguration and maintenance of freight rates which are injurious to all the great interests lying along its immense extent. The City of New-York consumes some two hundred and twenty-five thousand tons of gas coal, Brooklyn and Williamsburgh sixty thousand, Hoboken and Jersey City twenty-five thousand, or upward of three hundred and ten thousand tons for this city and its suburbs. Owing to the high freight which the Baltimore and Ohio road imposes, it is impossible to bring to market the excellent gas coal lying west of Cheat River. The Cities of New-York, Boston and all those in this section are thus forced to resort to Nova Scotia, Cape Breton and Pictou. The Baltimore and Ohio Railway will move flour and Western freight, which it has to handle, for fifty cents per ton from the Ohio River less than coal, which it simply transports, and other way freight, which has to be transported over two to three hundred miles less of road. It charges this intermediate freight fifty to eighty cents more for not being two to three hundred miles further from its destination.

By this extraordinary policy the immense coal fields of Western Virginia remain undeveloped. The coal is quite equal, if not superior, in every quality for which it is used, to the best English and Nova Scotia coals that we are obliged to use, because this company chooses not to transport our own American coal at reasonable rates. The road loses a million of freight, and American manufactures and commerce are made tributary to England and her colonies five or six millions more. We think this state of things has existed long enough.

MR. BLAIR'S ASSAULT UPON SECRETARIES SEWARD, STANTON AND HOLT.—The Kingston (Ulster County) Journal contains an elaborate, able and conclusive vindication of Messrs. SEWARD, STANTON, HOLT and DIX from the gratuitous and unfounded charges of MONTGOMERY BLAIR. The pressure upon our columns necessarily precludes the republication of this article. The following extract exposes the absurdity of a portion of Mr. BLAIR's accusations:

> Equally disingenuous, and equally at variance with the record of accepted history, is the following representation of Mr. BLAIR: "In the interim between the meeting of Congress and the accession of Mr. LINCOLN, the influential men in the Cabinet designated by him, and those playing their last card in BUCHANAN's Cabinet, were busied in intrigues with conspirators who were setting up their power over the Slave States.' We utterly deny any such collusion as is here alleged—we utterly deny the existence of a state of facts at all justifying Mr. BLAIR's sweeping accusation. The 'interim' referred to covers the events embraced in the period subsequent, as well as previous to the change which everybody knows took place in Mr. BUCHANAN's Cabinet—a change which threw out COBB, THOMPSON and FLOYD, the master-spirits of treason, and brought in STANTON and DIX, simultaneously with the transfer of HOLT to the War Department.
> It is remarkworthy that this fact of a reorganized Cabinet is totally ignored by Mr. BLAIR—that his speech makes no allusion to it whatever. So far as the administration of Mr. BUCHANAN is concerned, Mr. BLAIR's whole effort is exhaustive of an attempt to impress upon the popular mind the idea that his Cabinet remained a unit, that its policy was undeviating and continuous, and that that policy, based on an imputed agreement of Mr. BUCHANAN with JEFF. DAVIS, that no act of aggression or of war should be permitted during his term of office, was "in sympathy with the secession leaders." How is this so? Is there anything in the action of the remodeled Cabinet of Mr. BUCHANAN justifying the charges which Mr. BLAIR brings against them? We say, No. We believe that in that Cabinet, as reorganized and reformed, there was not a single member not essentially loyal at heart—always saving and excepting the infamous TOUCEY. We challenge the whole tribe of Blairs to lay their fingers on an isolated act of that Cabinet upon which they can successfully base an impeachment of their patriotism or of their infidelity to the Union. It is notorious that their line of policy, from the start, was in direct contravention of that previously pursued, irrespective of any committals of Mr. BUCHANAN to the rebels, by compact or otherwise. The proposition to remand Major ANDERSON back from Sumter to Fort Moultrie, urged by the conspirators upon the President as demanded by a due regard to the sanctity of the agreement or understanding had with him, was summarily rejected, by a formal vote, in Cabinet council. The first act of Mr. HOLT as Secretary of War was to countermand the order of his predecessor FLOYD, directing the shipment of the heavy guns at Pittsburgh to Southern ports—an act which, in itself, is sufficient to neutralize the force of Mr. BLAIR's gratuitous allegation imputing to that gentleman complicity with the "intrigues" of the rebel leaders. "Shoot on the spot any man who attempts to strike down the American flag" was the rule adopted and proclaimed by Gen. DIX. Nor must it be overlooked that amongst the efforts of the reformed Cabinet to vindicate the dignity and honor of the government was the fitting out of an expedition, at the earliest practicable day, for the provisioning and strengthening of the noble little garrison of Fort Sumter.
> Are these acts, one and all, or any of them, evidences of disloyalty? Do they exhibit "sympathy" or "connivance" with the enemies of the Union? Can public confidence be shaken in the integrity of the friends of Mr. LINCOLN, because of their holding communion and taking counsel with men presenting such a record, in such an emergency, as STANTON, DIX and HOLT? And why is it, we ask, that Mr. BLAIR has studiously withheld this chapter of current history from his carefully prepared political diatribe? Can there be any other reason than the profound consciousness that such a revelation would effectually expose his already thinly-disguised attempt at predetermined imposition?

SLAVERY IN CUBA.—On various accounts, negro slavery in Cuba has now a very uncertain tenure. As long as the "institution" existed in this country, and was upheld by our government, the system in Cuba had strong backing up. But now that it has fallen here, it there stands alone, in execrable solitude, on the North American continent. The new power, importance and energy of the Liberal party in Spain, also works against the continuance of slavery in the colonies. The Liberals of Spain, like those of every European country, are strongly opposed to slavery, and would make short work of it had they possession of the government. Even in the Conservative party, the system has many foes; and it is not unlikely that, under the influences now operating throughout the world in favor of emancipation, the measures which have been inaugurated in Spain in favor of gradual abolition, will, before the close of next year, be pushed to their consummation.

> The Republican platform is thus shown by an eminent member of the party to be as dishonest as a bank check, circulating in the mercantile community, not drawn against any funds. It is a fraudulent trick to keep up the credit of a concern consciously bankrupt, which does not disclose its real situation.

Without the key which Mr. HASKIN furnished in his letter, this lick "on the sly" at the Democratic platform would not have been so transparent. The editor of the World, it seems, personally objected to the Democratic platform, urging that it was "a bank check not drawn against funds;" but as the Committee on Resolutions would not listen either to the World or the Argus, the former, affecting to mean our platform, actually describes its own as "a fraudulent trick to keep up the credit of a concern consciously bankrupt."

MILK.—An old contributor to these columns writes to ask us to press the claims of condensed milk upon public attention and patronage. We were asked, moreover, the other evening, "whether we had gone out of the milk business yet." Both matters may be disposed of at once. We have not "gone out of" the practice of exposing milk or any other extortion, nor intend to do so. But, for the present, the condensed milk dealers are doing effective service, and the monopolists will find it out. Already the use of condensed milk is extensive and rapidly increasing. Whether the dealers therein are bringing their commodity forward with sufficient prominence is their affair; but we find that numerous families use the new article and are delighted with the change.

THE UNION CANDIDATES.

Gen. Barlow's Military Career.

The military career of Gen. FRANCIS C. BARLOW presents something typical of the character of the ideal American tempered with more modesty and greater reticence. Like GRANT, he learned to command by first learning to obey, and his steps from the study to the ranks, from the ranks to the highest military honors, illustrate the versatility and adaptibility of the American mind. Gen. BARLOW was a hater of slavery, from conviction that liberty was the equal right of all human beings. Educated at Harvard, where he was the honor man of his class, he was known to his fellow-students as the keenest, the most logical and most combative of disputants on the great question which then agitated the country. A course of study for the bar in the office of the late lamented WM. CURTIS NOYES, and a partnership in the practice of law with Col. GEORGE BLISS, brought associations which did not diminish the impression of earlier days, and the commencement of the war found him prepared to maintain the justice of the Northern cause by every personal sacrifice.

The very day which brought the news of the assault on Sumter, Gen. BARLOW commenced make preparations to leave his business and his home at the first call for troops. He sought for no position, and refused a commission which was offered him on the ground that he "had never touched a firearm in his life," and that he preferred to endure the hardships of a private soldier's life to being an object of ridicule in a situation that he was not master of. "Besides," said he, "officers will always be plenty." He enlisted as a private in the Twelfth State Militia, Col. BUTTERFIELD, on Saturday, April 20, 1861. He was married the same evening to the highly accomplished lady whose devotion to the Union cause, equaling his own, cost her her life, and the next morning at 8 o'clock he stood in the ranks of the Twelfth as they formed in line on Union-square, preparatory to their departure for Washington. He knew no one in the regiment, but his knapsack was stuffed with elementary military works, and he was a resolute and an habitual student. Three weeks in camp at Washington prepared him to accept a first lieutenancy which Col. BUTTERFIELD urged upon him, and in this capacity he served with his regiment until their three months' term expired and they were mustered out of the service. On his return to New-York he immediately commenced raising men for the Sixty-first Volunteers which was then organising, and was appointed Lieutenant-Colonel of that regiment. Being assigned to the army of the Potomac, the regiment lay idly gazing at the wooden guns of Manassas during the Fall and Winter of 1861, but its Lieutenant-Colonel was not idle, for by constant study he fitted himself for any position in which he might be placed by the fortunes or misfortunes of war. When the army moved down to the Peninsula, Col. BARLOW was in command of his regiment and during the siege of Yorktown received his commission as full Colonel. From that time Gen. BARLOW had a chance for the development of his undoubted talents as a military leader. At the battle of Fair Oaks he commanded a brigade and promptly led them into the thick of the fight. He exposed himself freely, keeping up with his men and never allowing them to recede an inch from their first position. He fought gallantly during the terrible seven days' struggle for a new base, and led the remnant of his regiment to the safe retreat at Harrison's Landing. At the battle of Antietam he again commanded a brigade, and was so severely wounded in the groin and in the breast, that his life was given up by all except his faithful wife. His gallantry and ability were here recognized by the War Department, and while in hospital at Washington, he was appointed Brigadier-General of volunteers. Upon his recovery, he was assigned to the command of a division of the Eleventh Corps, and led them at the bloody battle of Chancellorsville. In the course of this action the corps was thrown into some confusion and broke to the rear. Gen. BARLOW's command, however, remained firm, and Gen. SLOCUM, who was sent to the assistance of the Eleventh Corps, found him bravely contending against Stonewall JACKSON's entire army. At Gettysburgh Gen. BARLOW still commanded his division of the Eleventh. The corps was to a certain extent in disgrace, and was looked upon as unreliable. Determined, if possible, to inspire them with confidence, BARLOW rode along in front of the line encouraging them, and exhorting them to stand firm. During the action he exposed himself in every way; unjustifiably, except under the circumstances of the particular case, where a gallant example was needed to inspirit the troops, and they were required to be really led by their commander. In the midst of the action on the first day of the battle, after losing two staff officers, Gen. BARLOW fell from his horse with four musket balls in his body. The corps fell back, and he was left on the field near the village of Gettysburgh to all appearance dead. While lying in this state, exposed to the fire of both armies, he received two other wounds in different parts of his body. It was almost a miracle that he was ever heard from again. Yet toward evening, as Gen. JUBAL EARLY and Staff were riding across the field the rebel chief saw the star on the shoulders of an apparently inanimate figure, and stopped for a moment to obtain the name of the dead Union General. It was BARLOW; and as the movements of EARLY's staff officer caused him to open his eyes and discovered him to be alive, Gen. EARLY inquired if he could do anything for him. Being answered in the negative, it was proposed by some of the rebels to parole him, but Gen. EARLY declared it to be a waste of time, saying that he would never live to fight again. Slowly raising his head and resting it on his arm, the plucky hero replied: "I will live to fight you yet, General." Improbable as it might have seemed to the Confederate chief at that time, the prophecy was fulfilled at the battle of Spottsylvania Court-house, where BARLOW, in a brilliant charge, snatched from EARLY's corps an entire division and forty pieces of artillery. Mrs. BARLOW, who had followed the army, assisting in the hospitals, and even carrying succor to the wounded on the field, mounted a horse as soon as she learned the fate of her husband, and rode over to the Confederate lines in search of him. She was permitted to look over the field and through the village, and she found him that night in a barn in the village of Gettysburgh.

Careful nursing and assiduous care on her part, combined with the indomitable will and determination of the General to live to fight EARLY and all other traitors, brought him up almost out of the very grave, and he slowly recovered so as to resume his command when GRANT began his great movement in the Spring of 1864. After this Mrs. BARLOW was enabled to exhibit a tea-cup full of minie balls, which the surgeons had extracted from her husband's body. The record of Gen. BARLOW in the battles of the Wilderness is one of the most brilliant of the war. His capture of Gen. EDWARD JOHNSON and his entire division, has already been referred to, and the event is too recent in the story of the war to have been forgotten. It was the first substantial success of the new campaign, and Gen. BARLOW was brought prominently before the people by his gallantry in these actions. Being again slightly wounded and his old wounds breaking out afresh, he was obliged to seek rest and change, and received leave of absence, with the privilege of visiting Europe. With recovered health and fresh vigor he returned to the army, in front of Petersburgh, where he was promoted to a major-generalship, and took an active part in the closing struggle of the conflict. What general in the Union army can show a more brilliant career than this? Nothing but the purest and most devoted patriotism actuated FRANCIS C. BARLOW in entering the ranks in the service of his country when that service was most needed. Nothing but the most devoted loyalty induced him to remain in the army during the darkest days of the rebellion, when, weak and enfeebled by wounds, his failing health admonished him to seek rest and retirement. The great administrative and executive ability which he displayed in the army he will undoubtedly bring to the service of the State, and his talents and legal education eminently fit him for the position which he will undoubtedly attain from an appreciative people.

The National Game.

THE SILVER BALL CONTESTS AT KINGSTON, N. Y.

On Thursday, the Mutual and Active Clubs, of this city, played a game of base ball on the fair ground at Kingston, for a silver ball, presented by the Agricultural Society of Ulster County. After an exciting contest, the trophy was won by the Mutuals, by a score of 26 to 20. On the same day the Knickerbocker Club, of Albany, contested with the Resolute Club, of Brooklyn, for a similar prize, which was won by the Albanians in a well-contested game of ten innings, by a score of 13 to 12.

ACTIVE VS. UNION.

The home and home game between the Active Club, of New-York, and the Union Club, of Morrisania, will be played this afternoon on the St. George's cricket ground, at Hoboken, for the benefit of HARRY WRIGHT.

THE NAVAL RACE AT THE DOCK.

Commencement of the Trial—The Official "Suggestions" of the Board of Experts—The Rules of the Race—What Was Done Yesterday.

Owing to the fact that the wood used for starting the fires had to be passed up from the fire-rooms of the respective vessels yesterday morning to be weighed, it was not until a little over two hours after the time set that the fires were lit. From 7 o'clock until the moment the match was applied, the scene on the dock, as well as on board of the vessels, was of the liveliest interest. Mr. DICKERSON, Chief-Engineers DANBY, KELLOGG, SPRAGUE and PHYTHIAN were on hand early, and enjoyed themselves in spinning yarns while the wood was being passed up and weighed. Sixteen wheelbarrow loads made up the hour's allowance of coal, which was wheeled on board of each vessel. Shortly after 9 o'clock the firemen began to "wood up" and prepare for the contest. Before starting, the engineers of each vessel were served with a copy of the following document, emanating from the Board of Experts:

NEW-YORK, Sept. 15, 1865.

Hon. Gideon Welles, Secretary of the Navy, Washington, D. C.:

SIR: The undersigned, members of the board conducting the comparative experiments on boilers for the Navy Department, have convened as requested by your letter of the 26th of July last, and carefully examined the method of making the competitive trial at the wharf by the Algonquin and Winooski, described in the letter of the department of the same date to Rear-Admiral GREGORY.

We respectfully suggest the following modifications to the conditions of trial as proposed by the department:

1. That a preliminary trial of the Winooski be made, burning 1,600 pounds of coal per hour, and that the wheels of that vessel be so reduced that fifteen revolutions can be uniformly maintained on an average with that amount of coal.

2. When the above is ascertained, the wheels of the Algonquin shall be made exactly the same.

3. When both engines are ready for trial, they shall light fires at the same time, and after the five hours' preliminary trial, steam being at the working pressure in both vessels, the fires to be drawn and new fires made, to commence the ninety-six hours' trial, taking an accurate account of all fuel consumed.

At the expiration of the ninety-six hours' trial the contents of the furnaces are to be hauled, and the refuse and unconsumed coal weighed separately.

During the ninety-six hours' trial for economy of fuel at the wharf, the consumption of coal is to be 1,600 pounds average on the Winooski.

The same amount of coal is to be weighed and given to the Algonquin. If the latter vessel can average the same revolutions as the former with a less amount of coal, the remainder will be left on the wharf, and, after trial, weighed. If the Algonquin cannot maintain fifteen revolutions per minute with the prescribed amount of coal, sufficient shall be delivered to do so. The exact time is to be noted on each card and indorsed by the engineer.

The above suggestions are unanimously made by the members present at the several meetings.

We are, respectfully, your obedient servants,

(Signed,)
WM. L. EVERETT,
CHAS. W. COPELAND,
MILES CORYELL,
WM. BROMLEY,
WM. C. HIBBARD,
JOHN BAIRD,
WM. WRIGHT.

Mr. ISHERWOOD made his appearance early and watched the proceedings with much interest. Mr. DICKERSON attended to his own engine and looked the picture of confidence.

At 10 o'clock the fires were nearly ready to be lighted, but it was not until fifteen minutes past that hour that the Winooski lit her fires, the temperature in her boilers being 74 degrees. She was fired up with 1,600 pounds of coal and 1,110 pounds of pine wood. At 10:18 o'clock the Algonquin lit her fires. The water in the starboard boiler was at the temperature of 120 degrees, owing to the fact that she had steam on in that boiler the day previous. The water in the port boiler was 74, making a mean temperature of 97 degrees or 23 degrees in favor of the Algonquin over the Winooski. The Algonquin had her allowance of 1,110 pounds of wood upon which she placed 2,000 pounds of coal. At 10:37 steam began to form, and at 11:3 Mr. DICKERSON set the engine in motion, having a pressure of 20 pounds of steam. This movement of the engine was simply to warm up the different parts of the engine. Up to this time 4,000 pounds of coal had been put in the furnaces.

At 11:11, with a pressure of 48 pounds of steam, the engine of the Algonquin was started ahead and "hooked on." Steam rose rapidly, and the engine worked very nicely, with the exception of that unpleasant noise in the cylinder. By this time the number of spectators had increased, so that there was quite a concourse. Among them we noticed Admiral Gregory, Commodore Ringgold, Capt. Boggs, Reed Warden, Henry Steers, and a number of eminent engineers and shipbuilders.

When the Algonquin started, the water in the Winooski's boiler was not warm enough to "freshen salt mackerel." Her draft was poor, and steam did not begin to form until noon, 6,500 pounds of coal having been expended up to that time—2,500 more than the Algonquin.

At 11:28 the Algonquin stopped her engine for the purpose of adjusting her upper steam valve. At 11:35 she started ahead again, steam gauges showing a pressure of 65 pounds. At noon she was averaging 13¼ turns per minute.

At 12:30 the Winooski had 15 pounds of steam, and at 12:33 her engine was turned over to "warm up;" steam at this time, 20 pounds. At 12:38, one hour and twenty-four minutes after the Algonquin had started, the Winooski was started ahead, and "hooked on," the steam pressure at that time being 22 pounds.

At 1 o'clock both vessels were paddling away in fine style, the Algonquin making about 14 turns, and the Winooski 12; the latter, however, was gaining rapidly on her opponent. There is no question but that Mr. DICKERSON's boiler would be very valuable in a fleet of blockaders; they could get up steam from clean furnaces as soon as ordinary vessels can from banked fires. In the matter of getting up steam quickly, Mr. DICKERSON is far ahead of the Navy Department. An hour and twenty-four minutes is a worse beat than the Fleetwing gave the Henrietta a few days since, in a "drifting match." At 2:50 o'clock matters stood thus: Algonquin, 12¾ revolutions per minute; steam 46 pounds; consumption of coal about 1,300 per hour. Winooski, 17 revolutions per minute; steam 24 pounds; consumption of coal 1,100 pounds per hour. The five-hour test ended at about 4 o'clock.

FAREWELL MATINEE.—HERMANN announces his farewell matinée at the Academy of Music, to-day at 1 o'clock. This is positively his last day performance in this city, as on Tuesday next he opens in the City of Churches.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

KINGS COUNTY POLITICS.—The Regular and National Democratic Senatorial Conventions met yesterday afternoon—the former to nominate a candidate for the Third Senatorial District. Gen. C. E. PRATT presided; and after calling the roll of delegates, a motion was made to adjourn, which was carried. A committee was appointed to notify the Nationals of their action. The Nationals held a convention to nominate a candidate for the Second Senatorial District. JOHN B. WILDS presided. It being understood that Mr. JOHN C. JACOBS had a majority of the delegation, the members discussed the propriety of going into a nomination or adjourning, when it was announced that Mr. JACOBS would not accept. On this announcement, the convention adjourned, subject to the call of the chair. The Regular County Convention met at Montague Hall, and adjourned without doing any business. The Nationals also met and nominated JAMES FITZGERALD as Superintendent for the Poor of the Eastern District, and AUGUSTUS PERCIVAL as Superintendent of the Poor for the country towns. GEORGE W. SEAMAN was nominated for Justice of the Sessions, when the convention adjourned.

PROBABLE MANSLAUGHTER.—A woman named ANN DAVIS, residing at the lower end of Columbia-street, was arrested last evening by the Forty-third Precinct Police, on the charge of striking a child named MATILDA HOYT, aged 2 years, on the head with a piece of brick. The child's skull was fractured and she is not expected to survive. She explained that she threw the piece of brick at her own little girl in order to induce her to come home, but accidentally struck her companion, without intending to hit either. She was committed for examination.

FIRE ON A LIGHTER.—About 7 o'clock last evening a fire broke out on the lighter Bateman, loaded with petroleum oil, lying at the foot of Van Brunt-street. It originated in the cabin and was caused by the mate, who struck a match to light his pipe. His face and hands were badly burned. The men employed on the vessel and about the deck suppressed the flames before much damage was done. The vessel is owned by Messrs. TODD & Co., New-York.

FIRES.—An alarm of fire in the Eighth District last evening, was caused by the burning of some brush in Greenwood Cemetery. No damage. The night previous a fire occurred at No. 20 Bridge-street, occupied as a liquor store by PATRICK SHANLEY, originating from clothes taking fire in a closet on the second floor. Damage $300—fully insured in the Brooklyn and North American companies.

BROKE DOWN.—The hammer of the fire-bell in the City Hall cupola broke down last evening while sounding an alarm for the Eighth District. No damage was done. A smaller hammer was improvised for the occasion, and necessary repairs will be made to-day.

Williamsburgh.

ALMOST A RIOT—ATTACK UPON A PIC-NIC PARTY OF COLORED FOLKS.—About 8 o'clock last night, as a party of colored folks reached Eleventh-street, E. D., on their way to the ferry, from a pic-nic at Leffert's Park, they were set upon by a gang of white folks, and an indiscriminate row was the result. Sticks and stones were freely used and bloody heads became numerous. When the fight was at its height the police of the Forty-fifth Precinct made their appearance and arrested several of those engaged. One of the arrested negroes says his party were marching along in an orderly manner, preceded by fife and drum, when he heard some one shout out, "Kill the niggers—kill the niggers," and then a shower of stones was poured into them. A white man who was caught throwing stones, on the contrary states that the negroes were the first to commence the row. It was not ascertained whether any one had been mortally injured. The following parties were locked up last night, and will have a hearing before Judge DAILEY this morning: Anthony Jones, Wm. Mitchell, W. Laflin, Geo. Harris, Francis Setters and Isaac White, all colored, and Michael Furphy, white.

LAW REPORTS.

The Ways of Peace—Five Soldiers Lay Down their Swords and Turn Lawyers.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM—SEPT. 22.

Present—Justices Ingraham, Leonard and Sutherland.

If anything were needed to aid us in our efforts to comprehend the fact that, after having for four years conducted a great war on a grand scale, we have suddenly settled down to the practice of the ways of peace, we may find it in the spectacle which has been presented during this week in the General Term of our Supreme Court, now in session in this city. Five military gentlemen, natives of sister States, most of them educated at West Point, all deeply and earnestly devoted to the cause of the Union, and all having taken an active and prominent part in their country's struggles during the four years past, have been admitted to the bar of the Supreme Court of the State of New-York as attorneys and counsellors-at-law. Previously to the breaking out of the rebellion they had prepared themselves—with one exception—to practice in their native States. When the first guns were fired upon their country's flag, as it waved over Fort Sumter, those of them who had been educated by their country threw down their briefs, seized their swords and promptly went to their country's rescue. Two of them were in the thickest of the fight on the glorious and immortal field of Gettysburgh. It was there that one of them, General, (whether Major or Brigadier we do not know,) while gallantly leading his men on to victory, received a wound which has maimed him for life. Another held a position on the staff of Gen. Grant, and was with the latter officer in the campaign of 1864-5.

We give below the names of these new New-York counsellors, and also the names of the States of which they are native, and the names of the counsel on whose motion they were admitted.

Col. Hillyer, of Gen. Grant's staff, presented his credentials, and was admitted on motion of Col. J. D. McGregor. Col. Hillyer is from the State of Illinois. Lucius C. Duncan, Louisiana, was admitted on motion of James T. Brady, Esq. Gen. Charles B. and E. H. Stoughton, of Vermont, presented their credentials, and were admitted on motion of E. H. Stouton, Esq., counsellor of this city. Moody B. Smith, of North Carolina, presented his credentials, and was admitted on the motion of Ex-Judge Wm. Mitchell, late of the Supreme Court. They all signed the roll, and took the oath of office to support the Constitution of the United States, and the Constitution of the State of New-York, after which some of them resumed their military garb which had been laid aside previous to entering the court-room. The most of them propose to commence the practice of the law in this city.

An advertisement on another page about a man supposed to be lost is a little out of date; the individual has been found.

The beautiful plot of ground, containing 75 acres, situated on the north branch of the Raritan, owned by Col. A. D. HOPE, of the Hope Express Company, is for sale. It is to be regretted that the State of New-Jersey did not accept this property as a site for the Soldiers' Home, as it is one of the most eligible and attractive for a public building or a private residence in our State. The view obtained is of unsurpassable loveliness and of almost unlimited extent.—Somerset Unionist, Somerville, N. J.

Before the imitators of Lubin's Extracts can persuade the American public to adopt their spurious preparations, two miracles must be accomplished. The manufacture of PHALON's "Night-Blooming Cereus" must be stopped, and the nation deprived of its sense of smell. While both exist, the former will continue to enchant the latter.—Providence Press.

Open Day and Night.

On and after Sept. 1, 1865, H. T. HELMBOLD, Druggist, No. 594 Broadway, will keep his store open for the better accommodation of physicians and those requiring medicines.

Medicines prescribed at night are generally for urgent cases, and it is especially desirable that not only during the night, but at all times as well, they be prepared by thoroughly competent and unfatigued persons.

The faculty and the public may feel assured that none but the most experienced are employed in this establishment, the experience of each, in the best retail drug-stores, being from eight to twenty-five years. The day and night will be divided, and no clerk will be on duty more than ten hours per day. Trusting the faculty and public will appreciate this effort to supply a want long felt in the community, the proprietor subscribes himself,

Their obedient servant,

Are You Disturbed at Night?

And broken of rest by a child suffering and crying with the pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It relieves the little sufferer immediately. It cures wind colic, regulates the bowels, and is perfectly safe in all cases. Thirty-five cents a bottle.

Do not Waste your Money Buying any of the numerous worthless articles called GOLD PENS, which have flooded the market for the last few years, when at lower prices you can get pens which are acknowledged to be the BEST IN THE WORLD.

Avoid the shameless Upstarts, whose lack of brains compels them to attempt imitation, even to the advertisement. If you want the full value of your money, call on A. MORTON, No. 25 Maiden-lane, or inclose stamp for circular.

A Modern Miracle!

From old and young, from rich and poor, from high-born and lowly, comes the universal voice of praise for HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER.

It is a perfect and miraculous article. Cures baldness. Makes hair grow. A better dressing than any "oil" or "pomatum." Softens brashy, dry and wiry hair into beautiful silken tresses. But, above all, the great wonder is the rapidity with which it restores GRAY HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR.

Use it a few times, and
the whitest and worst looking hair resumes its youthful beauty. It does not dye the hair, but strikes at the root and fills it with new life and coloring matter.

It will not take a long and disagreeable trial to prove the truth of this matter. The first application will do good; you will see the NATURAL COLOR returning every day, and the old, gray, discolored appearance of the hair will be gone, giving place to lustrous, shining and beautiful locks.

Ask for HALL'S SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER; no other article is at all like it in effect. You will find it
CHEAP TO BUY, PLEASANT TO TRY, AND SURE TO DO YOU GOOD.

There are many imitations. Be sure you procure the genuine, manufactured only by R. P. HALL & CO., Nashua, N. H.

For sale by all druggists.

Autumn Excursions.

CHEAPEST AND MOST INTERESTING OF THE SEASON.

RICHMOND, VIA CHESAPEAKE BAY AND JAMES RIVER.

The elegant and new steamers of the NEW LINE,
now so popularly known, leave Baltimore from Spears' Wharf, as usual, at 6 o'clock, every evening, for Norfolk, Fortress Monroe, City Point and Richmond. The steamers comprising the new line are the GEORGE LEARY, JAMES T. BRADY, CITY POINT, DICTATOR and MAGENTA.

The James River being navigated entirely in the day time an opportunity is afforded of viewing the many interesting points on its banks. The above steamers are all new, powerfully constructed, and very fast, with gentlemanly commanders and obliging clerks. Passengers must be careful at the depots to ask for tickets for the New Line, and take no other.

No effort shall be left unspared to merit a continuation of the liberal patronage already bestowed.
A. W. SHAW, Superintendent.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

NEW BOOKS
PUBLISHED THIS DAY,
BY TICKNOR & FIELDS, BOSTON.

RECOLLECTIONS OF SEVENTY YEARS. By Mrs. JOHN FARRAR. 1 vol. 12mo. $1 50.

This is one of the most readable volumes ever issued from the press. It presents, in a pleasing style, the experiences of the author in the old world, reminiscences of distinguished people, many of whom it was her fortune to meet and know, and abounds in anecdotes of celebrities, never before made public.

The New-York Tribune says of the book:

"Written in a style of most unaffected simplicity, flowing with a certain colloquial ease, and marked with a rare good sense, as well as remarkable knowledge of the world. It has fallen to the lot of few persons to pass through such varied experiences as the author....She has treasured up a store of recollection, which cannot fail to interest readers of the present generation....The general spirit of the narrative, its quiet illustrations of the highest principles, and the variety and interest of its incident, as well as its charming English diction, will make the book a favorite with the intelligent and refined reader."

HESPERUS; OR, FORTY-FIVE DOG-POST DAYS. By JEAN PAUL FRIEDRICK RICHTER. Translated by Rev. CHARLES T. BROOKS. 2 vols. Uniform with "Titan." $4.

This is the work which first made Richter popular with the German public, and has been pronounced his best production. It abounds with noble thoughts, and vividly illustrates the author's reverence for Deity, his catholic humanity, and his tender appreciation of female character.

LYRICS OF LIFE. By ROBERT BROWNING. With 13 illustrations, from drawings, by SOL. EYTINGE. Paper, 50 cents.

This, the fourth volume of the series of Companion Poets, contains the most popular of Mr. Browning's shorter poems, among which are "My Last Duchess," "The Lost Leader," "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," "How they Brought the Good News from Ghent to Aix," "Propice," "In a Year," "The Confessional," and fifty others.

GOVERNMENT SALE OF WHISKY.

OFFICE DEPOT COMMISSARY,
FORT MONROE, Va., Sept. 21, 1865.

SEALED PROPOSALS (in duplicate) are invited and will be received by the undersigned at this depot until 12 O'CLOCK M. ON THE 13TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1865, for the sale of one thousand seven hundred and fifteen (1,715) barrels of whisky, more or less, as follows, viz.:

LOT NO. 1—Consisting of ten hundred and sixty-seven (1,067) barrels of Rectified Whisky, originally inspected in April, May and June, 1864, and January, 1865, containing about forty-two thousand three hundred and forty-five (42,345) gallons. Proposals for ten (10) barrels and upward of this lot will be received.

LOT NO. 2—Consisting of four hundred and sixty (460) barrels of Pure Copper Distilled and Superior Bourbon Whisky, originally inspected in February, 1865, containing about eighteen thousand four hundred and ninety-eight (18,498) gallons.

Proposals for five (5) barrels and upward of this lot will be received.

LOT NO. 3—Consisting of one hundred and twenty (120) barrels Pure Rye Whisky, originally inspected in February, 1865, containing about four thousand eight hundred (4,800) gallons.

Proposals for three (3) barrels and upward of this lot will be received.

LOT NO. 4—Consisting of sixty-three (63) barrels pure old Rye Whisky, originally inspected in February, 1865, containing about two thousand five hundred and twenty (2,520) gallons.

Proposals for two (2) barrels and upward of this lot will be received.

LOT No. 5—Consisting of five (5) barrels pure Old Bourbon Whisky, originally inspected June, 1864, containing about (163) one hundred and sixty-three gallons.

Proposals for one (1) barrel and upward of this lot will be received.

The whisky was originally selected with great care, and is all pure and of prime quality. The rectified was designed for issue to troops in the field, and the Bourbon and Rye for sales to officers, and are equal if not superior to any whiskies now in the market; has all been regauged within the present month, and is in excellent order, packages being of the best quality.

Samples of the whisky can be seen and blank proposals can be obtained at the offices of the following-named officers of the Subsistence Department, viz:
Col. H. F. CLARKE, A. D. C. and A. C. G. S., New-York.
Brev. Brig.-Gen. THOS. WILSON, C. S., Baltimore, Md.
Major GEORGE BELL, C. S., Washington, D. C.
Capt. THOMAS C. SULLIVAN, C. S., Richmond, Va.
Capt. E. D. BRIGHAM, C. S., Boston, Mass.
Capt. J. B. WIGGINGS, C. S., Philadelphia, Pa.

The government reserves the right to withdraw any or all of the above lots, and to reject any proposals deemed too low.

Payment to be made in United States currency within ten (10) days after notification of acceptance of bid and prior to delivery of the property.

A guaranty equal to one-half the amount proposed for must accompany the bid, signed by two (2) responsible parties.

When removing the whisky purchasers will provide their own transportation, and the government will load the vessels free of wharfage, dockage, or labor.

Bidders are invited to be present at the opening of their proposals. Brevet Brig.-Gen. Joseph Roberts, U. S. A., commanding at Fort Monroe, Va., or some other officer of rank, will be present at the opening of bids to represent absentees.
JAMES CURRY, Colonel and C. S. V.

FRESH BEEF AND VEGETABLES.

NAVY DEPARTMENT,
BUREAU OF PROVISIONS AND CLOTHING,
September 12, 1865.

Sealed Proposals, indorsed "Proposals for Fresh Beef and Vegetables," will be received at this Bureau until 2 o'clock P. M., on the 26th day of September inst., for the supply of 200,000 pounds of Fresh Beef and 200,000 pounds of Fresh Vegetables, at the New-York Navy-Yard and Station, as required. The Beef and Vegetables must be of good quality, and the best the market affords, and each article must be offered for by the pound. The Beef to be in equal proportions, fore and hind quarters.

Bonds, with approved security, will be required in one-half the estimated amount of the contract, and twenty per cent. in addition will be withheld from the amount of each payment to be made, as collateral security for the due performance of the contract, which will, on no account, be paid until it is fully complied with.

Every offer made must be accompanied by a written guaranty, signed by one or more responsible persons, that the bidder or bidders will, if his or their bid be accepted, enter into an obligation within five days, with good and sufficient sureties, to furnish the articles proposed.

No proposal will be considered unless accompanied by such guaranty, and by satisfactory evidence that the bidder is a regular dealer in the articles proposed and has the license required by law.

The department reserves the right to reject any proposal not considered advantageous to the Government.

PROPOSALS.

SUBSISTENCE OFFICE, UNITED STATES ARMY,
NO. 20 SOUTH-ST., BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 12, 1865.

SEALED PROPOSALS, IN DUPLICATE, will be received at this office until 12 noon THURSDAY, Oct. 5, 1865, for the purchase of about ONE THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED AND FIFTY HEAD OF PRIME BEEF CATTLE, in lots of ten and upward.

These cattle are all in prime condition, having been on hand several months and fed daily with hay and corn, and are fully equal to any offered in market. So rare an opportunity for the purchase of extra fine beef is seldom found.

Proposals must state the number it is proposed to purchase, and the price per pound, gross.

The cattle to be weighed by the State Weigher on delivery, and the weights, as rendered by him, to be the standard by which the bills are to be settled.

Terms of sale cash in government funds. A deposit of fifty (50) per cent. to be made on notification of acceptance of bid, the balance to be paid when the cattle are delivered.

Successful bidders will be allowed ten days in which to remove their stock.

The cattle can be examined at any time from the date of this advertisement till Oct. 4, from 10 A. M. till 4 P. M. daily, at the United States Cattle Corral, adjoining the government hay scales on the Franklin road, near Baltimore.

The undersigned reserves the right to reject any or all bids if they are deemed not advantageous to the United States.

The lots will be arranged numerically from Nos. 1 to 1,750, and the awards will be made in the same order, unless a particular lot may be designated in the bid. In no case will the skipping of numbers be allowed.

Proposals must be upon blank forms furnished at this office. Telegrams will not receive attention unless the same are prepaid.

Proposals to be indorsed "Proposals for the purchase of Beef Cattle," sealed and addressed to the undersigned.

By order of Brevet Brig.-Gen. THOMAS WILSON,
C. S. U. S. A.

Has living testimony to convince all. Terms: No cure, no pay. Office hours 9 to 12 A. M. No. 461 Broome-st., a few doors west of Broadway.

THOUSANDS ARE TIMELY SAVED BY Dr. KENNEDY'S skillful and improved treatment.—Private diseases cured in the shortest possible time by Dr. KENNEDY & CO., No. 195 Elm-st., New-York, without the use of mercury, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. KENNEDY, from the hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 28 years' practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and at less expense than any other can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call; it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhoea or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from Impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks, permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to Dr. KENNEDY, No. 195 Elm-st. Call, send or write.

A. M. MAURICEAU, PROFESSOR OF midwifery and operating surgeon, having over thirty years' successful practice in this city, guarantees a safe and immediate removal of all special irregularities and obstructions in females, without pain or exposure, with or without medicine. Can be consulted with the utmost confidence at his private office, No. 129 Liberty-st., New-York, or by mail.

Dr. A. M. Mauriceau is the author of "The Married Woman's Private Medical Companion," strictly intended for those whose health and circumstances forbid a too rapid increase of family; a perusal of which will convince any lady of his thorough knowledge of her complaints. Every lady who has it is secure from danger and imposition. Price $1. Sold at his office No. 129 Liberty-st., or sent by mail, by addressing Box No. 1,224 New-York City. Sold also at No. 1 Vesey-st., New-York; in Boston, No. 13 Court-st.

New edition, 400 pages, nearly 100 anatomical illustrations—upon debility, affections of the bladder and kidneys, sexual diseases, European hospital practice, the author's unequaled Paris and London treatment, &c. All who would avoid unsuccessful and barbarous treatment with quack specifics, antidotes, instruments, &c., should purchase this original work of E. WARNER, No. 1 Vesey-st., for $1, closely sealed, or consult the doctor, No. 173 Broadway, up stairs, New-York, from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M.

"We concur with other papers in recommending Dr. Larmont and his work."—Courier des Etats Unis, German die Reform, Dispatch, Staats Zeitung, Atlas, Medical Review, &c.

ADVICE TO MARRIED LADIES.—MADAME RESTELL, Professor of Midwifery, having over thirty years' successful practice in this city, guarantees a safe and immediate removal of all special irregularities and obstructions in females, with or without medicine, at one interview, or by mail. Can be consulted with the utmost confidence at No. 162 Chambers-st. Her infallible French Female Pills, No. 1, price $1, or No. 2, which are four degrees stronger than No. 1, and can never fail, are safe and healthy, price $5, can be sent by mail. Also sold at the druggist's, No. 152 Greenwich-st., near Liberty-st. Madame RESTELL deems it her duty to caution ladies against imitators, who not only deprive them of their means, but their health.

MANHOOD AND THE VIGOR OF YOUTH regained in three days by Dr. POWERS' ESSENCE OF LIFE. This wonderful agent restores manhood to the most shattered constitutions, radically curing Seminal Weakness, Sexual Debility, and Impediments to Marriage generally; Nervousness, Mental and Physical Incapacity, resulting from self-abuse, &c. The time required to cure the most inveterate case is one week. Failure is impossible. This life-restoring remedy should be taken by all about to marry, as its effects are permanent. Young man, are you subject to that soul and body destroying disease, secret habits? Dr. POWERS' Invigorating Essence is a never-failing cure. Sold by WALTER POWERS, M. D. No. 195 Elm-st. New-York.

A PHYSIOLOGICAL VIEW OF MARRIAGE—Containing nearly 300 pages and 130 fine plates and engravings of the anatomy of the sexual organs, in a state of health and disease, with a treatise on self-abuse, its deplorable consequences upon the mind and body, with the author's plan of treatment—the only rational and successful mode of cure, as shown by the report of cases treated. A truthful adviser of the married and those contemplating marriage, who entertain doubts of their physical condition. Sent, free of postage, to any address on receipt of 25 cents, in specie or postage stamps. Address Dr. LA CROIX, No. 31 Maiden-lane, Albany, N. Y.

DR. POWERS' PERIODICAL DROP are designed for both married and single ladies, and are the very best thing known for the purpose, as they will bring on the monthly sickness in case of obstruction from any cause, and after all other remedies of the kind have been tried in vain. Expressly for obstinate cases. Warranted as represented in every respect, or the price will be refunded. ☞ Beware of imitations! Purchased directly of Dr. POWERS, No. 195 Elm-st., New-York.

DR. HUNTER'S BOTANIC CORDIAL restores the vigor of youth in four days. Gives health, strength and vigor to the most shattered system. $1 a bottle. No. 3 Division-st., New-York, the only place.

MANY THOUSANDS ARE RUINED BEYOND REDEMPTION in this life by not calling on Dr. HUNTER sooner or later. He can cure the worst cases of secret disease in a shorter time than any other physician, or no pay taken. Skeptics and doubters will please call and read lists of reliable certificates of cures made within the last thirty years of almost hopeless cases, that had the benefit of dozens of our most eminent physicians and surgeons. Dr. Hunter is in constant attendance from 8 in the morning till 9 at night, at his old office, No. 3 Division-st., New-York City, since 1834. Charges moderate, and a cure guaranteed. Separate rooms, so that the patient sees no one but the Doctor himself. His wonderful medical discovery, DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP, cures private diseases when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury, and possesses the peculiarly valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb unless his remedy is used. This is what he claims for it, and what no other will accomplish. $2 per vial. Book, 50 pages, gratis, on nervous debility, causes of impotency, marasmus, &c.

WALLACK'S.

Proprietor and Manager..........Mr. LESTER WALLACK
NOTICE.

I have entered into an agreement with the eminent dramatic author, Mr. Tom Taylor, by which I am to receive advance copies of all his new plays. I respectfully warn the public and managers of theatres, that the copies of those pieces announced for sale by agents and others are merely GARBLED AND ABSURD IMITATIONS, hastily written off (after the plays themselves have been seen in London) for speedy transmission to America. This abominable system of imposition has become so general, that I deem it due to the public, to managers and to myself to expose it. True copies of Mr. Taylor's new plays can only be obtained from me.
LESTER WALLACK.

THIS EVENING will be presented
A NEW AND ORIGINAL DRAMA,

Colley Cibber's
FIVE-ACT COMEDY,
THE DOUBLE GALLANT,
revised and adapted to the present stage, with entirely
NEW SCENERY, DRESSES AND APPOINTMENTS, will be produced immediately, and performed alternately with THE SERF,
in order to carry out the system of
NOVELTY AND VARIETY
which seems most acceptable to the frequenters of this Theatre.
A GRAND ROMANTIC DRAMA
AND A NEW FIVE-ACT COMEDY
are also in preparation.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

In the year 1848, the writer embarked in the Drug business in the City of Philadelphia, and while thus engaged, made several experiments in regard to the most desirable mode of preparing Fluid Extracts. My efforts being successful—the articles being approved and used by the Medical Faculty—I was desirous of placing them before the public, but hesitated for some time before concluding to resort to newspaper advertising, knowing of the prejudices that existed in the minds of many against using advertised Medicines, but through the advice of friends and those who had used my preparations, this objection was overcome.

Commencing in a small way, after 18 years' exertions, the popularity of my articles has extended to all parts of the United States, and widely throughout foreign countries—and this in the face of much opposition. Every means has been resorted to by unprincipled dealers since their merit and success have been known—such as advertising larger bottles at less price, censuring all other preparations, and even copying my advertisements—but I am happy to state that out of the many who have resorted to this, none have been successful.

H

Knowing that many may read this article who are unacquainted with me, find remarks from those of my native city, and whose names are known in all parts of the world:

For further satisfaction see remarks from largest manufacturing chemists in the world, Journal Pharmacy, Dr. Keyser's letter, Medical Works, Dispensatory United States, &c.

E

The science of medicine, like the Doric column, should stand simple, pure and majestic, having fact for its basis, induction for its pillar, and truth alone for its capital.

I contend there is no business requiring these qualifications more, as medicines are brought in contact with druggists everywhere. I am also well aware that persons reason in this manner—that which may benefit one may be of no advantage to another. How mistaken the idea!

A blood-purifier for one is a blood-purifier for all.

A diuretic for one, a diuretic for all.

A narcotic for one, a narcotic for all.

A purgative for one, a purgative for all.

Just as much so as wholesome food for one is wholesome food for all, with no more difference than that some constitutions require more than others, and that persons in disease are given to despondency—expecting in a few days or weeks, and perhaps with a single bottle of medicine, to be restored to health, if not to youth and beauty. These persons rarely recover, lacking patience. They give nothing a fair trial, considering a few dollars expended for the benefit of their health a waste of money. The same individuals may have been years in breaking down their constitutions, and have probably expended thousands of dollars in dress and dissipation, and thought nothing of it. Such forget that GOOD HEALTH IS TRUE WEALTH.

With upwards of 30,000 recommendatory letters and unsolicited certificates, I have never resorted to their publication. In this case I shall, however, append a few remarks, trusting they may be appreciated. I am to the afflicted and suffering humanity,

Their humble servant,
H. T. HELMBOLD,
Manufacturer of Helmbold's Genuine Preparations.

THE KIDNEYS.

The kidneys are two in number, situated at the upper part of the loin, surrounded by fat and consisting of three parts, viz.: The Anterior, the Interior, and the Exterior.

The anterior absorbs. Interior consists of tissues or veins, which serve as a deposit for the urine and convey it to the exterior. The exterior is a conductor also, terminating in a single tube and called the Ureter. The ureters are connected with the bladder.

The bladder is composed of various coverings or tissues, divided into parts, viz.: the Upper, the Lower, the Nervous, and the Mucous. The upper expels, the lower retains. Many have a desire to urinate without the ability, others urinate without the ability to retain. This frequently occurs in children.

To cure these affections we must bring into action the muscles, which are engaged in their various functions. If they are neglected, Gravel or Dropsy may ensue.

The reader must also be made aware, that however slight may be the attack, it is sure to affect his bodily health and mental powers: as our flesh and blood are supported from these sources.

M

GOUT OR RHEUMATISM.

Pain occurring in the loins is indicative of the above diseases. They occur in persons disposed to acid stomach and chalky concretions.

B

THE GRAVEL.

The gravel ensues from neglect or improper treatment of the kidneys. These organs being weak, the water is not expelled from the bladder, but allowed to remain; it becomes feverish and sediment forms. It is from this deposit that the stone is formed and gravel ensues.

O

is a collection of water in some parts of the body, and bears different names, according to the parts affected, viz.: when generally diffused over the body, it is called Anasarca; when of the abdomen, Ascites; when of the chest, Hydrothorax.

L

TREATMENT.

Helmbold's highly concentrated compound Extract Buchu is decidedly one of the best remedies for diseases of the bladder, kidneys, gravel, dropsical swellings, rheumatism, and gouty affections. Under this head we have arranged Dysuria, or difficulty and pain in passing water, scanty secretion or small and frequent discharges of water, Strangury or stopping of water, Hematuria or bloody urine, Gout and Rheumatism of the kidneys, without any change in quantity, but increase of color or dark water. It was always highly recommended by the late Dr. Physick, in these affections.

This medicine increases the power of digestion and excites the absorbents into healthy exercise, by which the watery or calcareous depositions and all unnatural enlargements, as well as pain and inflammation, are reduced, and is taken by

MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

"Will the Fluid Extracts go out of use owing to the high price, or can we have some authoritative modifications of the formulas by which we can make them at a more reasonable cost?"

"If the latter, shall the change be in the quality of the menstruum, or in the manner of applying it, so as to reduce the quantity requisite? Can there be a convocation of the Committee of Revision to authorize some new method or modification of the present recipes?"

With regard to the contemplated change in the quantity, or in the menstruum itself, in the preparation of fluid extracts, I would take occasion to say that in medicine the health of the patient is the great object to be gained.

The cost of material is something, but when put into the scale with human health, and often human life, it is hardly worthy of consideration at all. Buchu (Helmbold's) will continue to be made as formerly, and if it cannot be maintained at present prices, they will have to be advanced to meet the advance in the price of material. To such as desire quantity instead of quality, we would say that water is a cheap commodity, and may be readily added by the person using the medicine if he desires to do so.

A CASE OF TWENTY YEARS STANDING.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., February 28, 1865.

H. T. Helmbold, Druggist:

DEAR SIR: I have been a sufferer for upward of twenty years, with gravel, bladder, and kidney affections, during which time I have used various medicinal preparations, and been under the treatment of the most eminent physicians, experiencing but little relief.

Having seen your preparations extensively advertised, I consulted with my family physician in regard to using your Extract Buchu.

B

I did this because I had used all kinds of advertised remedies, and had found them worthless, and some quite injurious; in fact, I despaired of ever getting well, and determined to use no remedies hereafter unless I knew of the ingredients. It was this that prompted me to use your remedy. As you advertised that it was composed of buchu, cubebs, and juniper berries, it occurred to me and my physician as an excellent combination, and, with his advice, after an examination of the article, and consulting again with the druggist, I concluded to try it. I commenced its use about eight months ago, at which time I was confined to my room.

O

From the first bottle I was astonished and gratified at the beneficial effect, and after using it three weeks was able to walk out. I felt much like writing you a full statement of my case at the time, but thought my improvement might only be temporary, and, therefore, concluded to defer and see if it would effect a perfect cure, knowing then it would be of greater value to you and more satisfactory to me.

I AM NOW ABLE TO REPORT THAT A CURE IS EFFECTED AFTER USING THE REMEDY FOR FIVE MONTHS.

I HAVE NOT USED ANY NOW FOR THREE MONTHS, AND FEEL AS WELL IN ALL RESPECTS AS I EVER DID.

Your Buchu being devoid of any unpleasant taste and odor, a nice tonic and invigorator of the system, I do not mean to be without it whenever occasion may require its use in such affections.

AT THE CAPE OF GOOD HOPE

have long used BUCHU for a variety of diseases; it was borrowed from those rude practitioners by the English and Dutch physicians, on whose recommendation it was employed in Europe, and has now come into general use. It is given chiefly in

Gravel, Chronic Catarrh of the Bladder, Morbid Irritation of the Bladder and Urethra, for Female Weakness and Debility, for Prolapsus and Bearing Down, or Prolapsus Uteri, Diseases of the Prostate Gland, Retention or Incontinence of Urine, and all diseases requiring the aid of a diuretic arising from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. It is also recommended in cases of Dyspepsia, Chronic Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections and Dropsy.

To cure these diseases we must bring into action the muscles which are engaged in their various functions. To neglect them, however slight may be the attack, is sure to affect the bodily health and mental powers. Our FLESH and BLOOD are supported from these sources. Persons at every period of life, from

and in every state of health, are liable to be subjects of these diseases. The causes in many instances are unknown. The patient has, however, an admirable remedy in

HELMBOLD'S GENUINE PREPARATIONS.

His Solid and Fluid Extracts embody the full strength of the ingredients of which they are named. They are left to the inspection of all. A ready and conclusive test of their properties will be a comparison with those set forth in the United States Dispensatory. These remedies are prepared by H. T. Helmbold, Druggist of sixteen years' experience in this city, and we believe them to be reliable; in fact we have never known an article lacking merit to meet with a permanent success, and Mr. Helmbold's success is certainly prima facie evidence. His Drug and Chemical Warehouse, in the City of New-York, is not excelled, if equaled, by any in this country, and we would advise our readers, when visiting that city, to give him a call and judge for themselves.

HELMBOLD.

DR. KEYSER IS A PHYSICIAN OF over thirty years' experience, and a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College and of the University of Medicine and Surgery of Philadelphia.]

H

Mr. H. T. Helmbold:

DEAR SIR: In regard to the question asked me as to my opinion about Buchu, I would say that I have used and sold the article in various forms for the past thirty years. I do not think there is any form or preparation of it I have not used or known to be used, in the various diseases where such medicate agent would be indicated. You are aware, as well as myself, that it has been extensively employed in the various diseases of the bladder and kidneys, and the reputation it has acquired in my judgment is warranted by the facts.

E

I have seen and used, as before stated, every form of Buchu—the powdered leaves, the simple decoction, tincture, fluid extracts—and I am not cognizant of any preparation of that plant at all equal to yours. Twelve years' experience ought, I think, to give me the right to judge of its merits, and without prejudice or partiality, I give yours precedence over all others. I do not value a thing according to its bulk; if I did, other Buchus would out-do yours; but I hold to the doctrine that bulk and quantity do not make up value; if they did, a copper cent would be worth more than a gold dollar.

L

I value your Buchu for its effect on patients. I have cured with it, and seen cured with it, more diseases of the bladder and kidneys than I have ever seen cured with any other Buchu, or any other proprietary compound of whatever name.

Respectfully yours, &c.,

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

PHILADELPHIA, July 18, 1863.

Our esteemed friend and fellow-citizen, Mr. H. T. Helmbold, informs us that he contemplates removing to the City of New-York, with a view of enlarging his business. We have been acquainted with him for upward of ten years; have been pleased with his integrity and fair dealing. Commencing in a small way his articles must possess merit to insure the success he has met with, and from our acquaintance with him can confidently speak that we do not believe he is a man who would wish to impose on any one, much less the afflicted; and really in our own long business experience as an advertising medium, we have never heard of the success of any medicine without merit.

B

From the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, of June 20, 1864.

We are gratified to hear of the continued success in New-York of our townsman, Mr. H. T. Helmbold, Druggist. His store, next the Metropolitan Hotel, is 28 feet front, 200 feet deep, and five stories in height. It is certainly a grand establishment, and speaks favorably of the merit of his articles. He retains his office and laboratory in this city, which are also model establishments of their class.

O

From the Largest Manufacturing Chemists in the World.

I am acquainted with Mr. H. T. Helmbold; he occupies the drug store opposite my residence, and was successful in conducting the business where others had not been equally so before him. I have been favorably impressed with his character and enterprise.

We do not like to advertise worthless wares, or articles calculated to deceive our readers; and when we see an advertiser like Mr. Helmbold, whom we have known for years, gradually extend his advertising from year to year until he becomes the largest advertiser in the United States, we are satisfied that the statements in regard to his articles must be correct.

The writer inserts the above, but would not do so were he not a stranger to many; and concludes by stating the names of his articles, and the diseases for which they have been used by many thousands with complete success.

DIOSMA CRENATA. BUCHU LEAVES.

PROPERTIES.—Their odor is strong, diffusive and somewhat aromatic, their taste bitterish and analogous to mint.

MEDICAL PROPERTIES AND USES.—Buchu leaves are gently stimulant, with a peculiar tendency to the Urinary Organs, producing diuresis, and like other similar medicines, exciting diaphoresis, when circumstances favor this mode of action.

They are given in complaints of the Urinary Organs, such as Gravel, Chronic Catarrh of the Bladder, Morbid Irritation of the Bladder and Urethra, Disease of the Prostate and Retention or Incontinence of Urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. The remedy has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, Chronic Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections and Dropsy.

Helmbold's Extract Buchu is used by persons from the ages of 18 to 25, and from 35 to 55, or in the decline or change of life; after Confinement or Labor Pains; Bed-wetting in children.

HELMBOLD'S

FLUID

EXTRACT BUCHU

Continues to receive the unqualified indorsement of the most PROMINENT PHYSICIANS IN THE UNITED STATES, from the fact that the ingredients are not kept secret, and, also, because are recommended only for those diseases and accompanying symptoms for which their ingredients are everywhere recognized as thorough, standard specifics. In quoting properties from Medical Certificates, there must be repetitions of language. Diseases and symptoms follow, but symptoms should not be mistaken for distinct diseases. This is mentioned from the fact that many might say that they proposed to cure everything. Additional evidence, also, which fully sustains all that is claimed for them, is found in the medical works of the day, recommendations from prominent chemists, druggists, &c., who have been personally acquainted with the proprietor for many years, as well as certificates in unlimited numbers.

HELMBOLD'S GENUINE PREPARATIONS

Nothing pertaining to these preparations will be withheld from either the faculty or the public.

In conclusion, the entire modus operandi of procuring and preparing the ingredients being perfectly free for inspection, it will be deemed both unjust and unfair for the faculty and the public to decide upon the merits of these preparations without a trial, especially after so much pains and expense in bringing them to their present state of perfection.

THESE PREPARATIONS

all the diseases for which they are recommended. It is not claimed that a single bottle will restore to soundness a constitution broken down and shattered by years of irregularities, or that dissipation may be continued when under treatment, and a cure effected; but that, where the directions are obeyed, these preparations will

EFFECT A CURE.

Under any circumstances they will do as much as any preparation or medicine in the wide world.

The best evidence of the truth of the foregoing statements is found in a simple trial which the most skeptical of their entire truthfulness.

The Laboratory for the manufacture of

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACTS

In Philadelphia, has been visited by hundreds of Physicians. It will soon be removed to

A WORD OF CAUTION.

Health is most important; and the afflicted should not use an advertised medicine, or any remedy, unless its contents or ingredients are known to others beside the manufacturer, or until they are satisfied of the qualifications of the party so offering.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

more strengthening than any of the preparations of Bark or Iron, infinitely safer, and more pleasant, is now offered to afflicted humanity as a certain cure for the following diseases and symptoms, from whatever cause originating:

HELMBOLD'S HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA,

For purifying the blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of Scrofula, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Pains and Swellings of the Bones, Ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Blotches, Pimples on the Face, Tetter, Erysipelas, and all Scaly Eruptions of the Skin,

O

AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

NOT A FEW

Of the worst disorders that affect mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the blood. Of all the discoveries that have been made to purge it out, none can equal in effect Helmbold's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla. It cleanses and renovates the blood, instils the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the blood. Such a remedy, that could be relied on, has long been sought for, and now, for the first time, the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show the sick that it has virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken.

Two tablespoonfuls of the Extract of Sarsaparilla, added to a pint of water, is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla or the decoction as usually made.

☞ THESE EXTRACTS HAVE BEEN ADMITTED TO USE IN THE UNITED STATES ARMY, and are also in very general use in all the State HOSPITALS and PUBLIC SANITARY INSTITUTIONS throughout the land, as well as in private practice, and are considered as invaluable remedies.
